British In Fifth Army Drive Two Miles Forward

Drive Germans Back And Reach Outskirts Of Minturno, Says Report

GERMAN CLAIM SAYS MINTURNO ABANDONED

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Jan. 20.—British tommies of the Allied Fifth Army, riding roughshod over Nazi tank-led counter-attacks, drove forward two miles beyond the north banks of the Garigliano river in western Italy today, hurling the Germans from three towns and reaching the outskirts of Minturno.

(DNB, the controlled enemy propaganda agency, asserted that Minturno, which lies above a looping bend in the Garigliano and is the main defense bastion for that area, has been "abandoned." The highway junction town was threatened with encirclement by British columns, the agency indicated in its dispatch, heard in London.)

Villages Fall

The villages of Suio, with an elevation of 500 feet and lying seven miles inland; Argento, four miles from the sea, and Tufo fell before the advancing British.

In taking the three towns from the Nazis, the British, who had earlier established three bridgeheads on the Garigliano's north bank, advanced two miles.

Hurling tanks into action in this bitter Appian way battle, the Germans counter-attacked twice, but

New one-cent pieces made of copper and zinc are again in production, according to announcement from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which has placed them in circulation. They are similar to the old copper pennies. The "steel plug" pennies, made for a time, will remain in circulation for a time. When no longer needed they will be returned to the reserve banks and stored. Few of the "white" pennies ever got into general circulation in New Castle district.

Indicate Soldier Vote Issue Is Up To States

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
(I.N.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. — Congressional polls indicated today that the house will reject a federal ballot for servicemen by approximately a 100-vote margin, and will overwhelmingly pass a senate-approved bill leaving the problem to the states.

With a vote on the issue scheduled for next week, two polls have been conducted. One has been made by Republicans, the other by Democrats who favor the senate version.

The G.O.P. poll shows that of the 209 Republicans in the house, approximately 190 of them favor the senate bill and are opposed to a federal ballot.

The Democratic poll gives the senate measure 89 out of the 217 Democratic votes in the lower branch.

This would divide the house approximately 279 to 147 against a federal ballot, with the votes of four members belonging to minority parties, not included.

Air Fields Near Italian Capital Being Pounded

Many Enemy Airdromes In Italian Sector Mercilessly Hammered By Allies

ROME RAIL LINES VIRTUALLY CUT OFF

By LARRY NEWMAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Jan. 20.—Giant American heavy bombers, already having virtually cut off Rome from other cities by rail, switched the weight of their attacks during the last 24 hours to hammer mercilessly at air fields near the Italian capital or protecting Nazi invaders in that area.

Many Dromes Hit

Four-motored Flying Fortresses and Liberators spearheaded the attacks which ranged also far out to the Adriatic coast. At least six enemy dromes, including those at Viterbo, Ciampino, Contocello, Perugia, Rieti and Iesi, were battered during the day's operations, made just a few hours before detailed reconnaissance photographs revealed that Rome itself is cut off from rail communication with many other leading Italian cities.

Big B-17s flew under a screen of P-38 Lightning fighters to bomb two enemy fields at Ciampino, 10 miles southeast of the Italian capital while other formations of fortresses blasted the Contocello drome, shooting down two Nazi interceptors en route.

90 Miles North Of Rome

At the same time, B-24 Liberators, also operating with speedy twin-tailed Lightnings, lashed out at the sprawling Perugia network of airfields, 90 miles north of Rome. Other Liberator squadrons turned their attention to Iesi, 15 miles above the Adriatic port of Ancona. Damage everywhere was listed as heavy by Allied spokesmen.

At Ciampino, two hangars were damaged badly and a third crumpled under the force of a direct hit from a high-explosive bomb. A tremendous explosion ripped nearby repair

MYSTERY SHOOTING CASE IN CHICAGO

Wealthy Woman Of Old Chicago Family Seriously Injured In Strange Shooting

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Victim of a puzzling shooting, Mrs. Adele Born Williams, wealthy member of an old Chicago family and wife of a Washington diplomat, was reported in critical condition today.

Mrs. Williams, 54, wife of Frank Starr Williams, attache of the U. S. State Department, and former commercial attache in Tokyo, was shot in the head last night under mysterious circumstances in her eighth floor suite in the Drake hotel.

Before lapsing into a coma, Mrs. Williams told police she was shot by a 'middle-aged woman wearing a black Persian lamb coat" who began firing at her and Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, 28, a daughter by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Goodbody told police she and her mother were disturbed to find the door open when they returned to her mother's room last night but concluded a maid had neglected to lock the door.

"We went in and thought nothing more about it," she continued. "We sat around for about 20 minutes when I went into the bathroom and noticed a movement behind the door and called out to mother.

"A woman I never had seen before stepped from behind the door. She had a gun in her hand and cried: I'll get you. I'll get you'."

"She pointed the gun at me and fired twice, I believe, and then went into the room where my mother was.

"She fired two more shots." I came out to find my mother wounded."

Mrs. Goodbody said the gunwoman disappeared in the commotion.

Smashing Attack Made On Rabaul By U. S. Bombers

Eight Jap Merchantmen Are Sunk Or Damaged In Latest Raid

HEAVY AERIAL DUEL DEVELOPS

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 20.—A smashing, low-level attack on Rabaul, during which Navy bombers and escorting fighters battered their way through more than 100 Japanese interceptors to sink or damage eight enemy merchantmen, was revealed today at Allied headquarters.

When the victorious raiders left the scene three of the enemy freighters were sunk, two more were afire and sinking and three others had been badly damaged.

Destructive Blow

In carrying out this new destructive blow to vital enemy shipping in the Southwest Pacific the attackers fought one of the most savage aerial duels of this area. Eighteen Japanese planes were sent blazing to the ground or into the sea, while another 15 probably were destroyed by deadly marksmanship of the Allied fliers.

Twelve of the Allied planes failed to return from the raid, staged

Senator Butler Files Report To Support Charges

Replies To Denial Of Administration On Spending In South America

By ELLIOTT HAYES
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Sen. Butler (R) Neb. filed with the senate today a certified accountant's report to prove his charges that the "New Deal" is spending more than six billion dollars in Latin America to launch a new way of life for the world.

Butler said he had the report made in order to completely refute an administration denial of the charges he made in the senate on Nov. 26 as the result of a personal visit to this country's southern neighbors.

Hiding Real Purpose

The Nebraskan challenged the administration to disprove the figures he reported today and accused it of hiding its real purpose under the guise of the war effort.

The figures for both expenditures and commitments in 1942, 1943 and 1944 total more than five billion 733 million, but Butler said he is satisfied in his own mind that they run much more than six billions.

He also said that expenditures in United States possessions in the Caribbean and Panama Canal Zone under Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and Rexford Guy Tugwell, governor of Puerto Rico, are setting a pattern of spending all over Latin America and creating ill will.

The "dance of the billions, to the tune of gold and silver cymbals,"

Giant Artillery Duel In Straits

Believe Nazi Convoy Attempts To Sneak Through Straits Of Dover

BIG GUNS OPEN LENGTHY ATTACK

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—British coastal batteries along the Straits of Dover bombarded and sank a large enemy supply vessel near the French town of Cap Griz-Nez today, precipitating a long range artillery duel across the English channel.

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—An attempted Nazi convoy sneak through the straits of Dover was believed today to have touched off a giant artillery duel this morning between mighty British and German batteries.

More than 200 shells were exchanged during the trans-channel duel that lasted for nearly three hours.

The roaring, long range bombardment from both sides of the channel sent coastal residents hurrying to shelters.

British artillery units opened the duel before dawn as they lobbed shells into the straits trying to smash the convoy, believed heading for the North sea from hide-out bases along the French coast.

New Guinea Japs May Try To Evacuate

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Secretary of War Stimson expressed the belief today that the Japanese are attempting to evacuate some of their forces from New Guinea on barges under cover of night.

At the same time the Secretary at his news conference, warned that the Japanese were reinforcing their air strength in the Southwest Pacific and that enemy pilots were becoming "more aggressive".

In describing the offensive in New Guinea Stimson said that Australian forces were advancing westward from captured Sio and that they were taking large amounts of Japanese stores.

"There are some indications that the Japanese are trying to evacuate by night by barge," Stimson added. "Several of these barges loaded with troops have been sunk."

Raid On German Plane Factories Was Big Victory

Secretary Stimson Says Later Reports Reveal Factories Badly Ruined

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Secretary of War Stimson announced today that additional reports on the American air raid against German airplane factories in the Berlin area indicate" it was a greater victory than at first announced."

"Additional reports on the American air raid against German aircraft factories indicate the victory was even greater than at first announced," Stimson said. " . . . Production is likely to be wiped out for months."

At his weekly news conference Stimson devoted much of his war summary to giving details and explanations of the air raid by Yankee fliers against the plane producing cities of Brunswick, Halberstadt and Oschersleben in the Berlin area. Twelve hundred planes were used.

More Men Killed On Home Front

War Production Taking More Lives Than Battlefronts, Reports O. W. I.

OVER 37,600 KILLED SINCE PEARL HARBOR

By ERWIN D. SIAS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. — The Office of War Information disclosed today that more men are losing their lives in home-front war production than on the battlefields overseas.

In a survey of government agencies, private industry and labor unions, OWI revealed 37,600 war workers were killed up to Jan. 1 in industrial accidents since Pearl Harbor—7,500 more than service men killed on the battlefronts during the same period.

OWI said it found 210,000 workers were permanently disabled and four million 500 thousand temporarily disabled during the same period—60 times more than the military wounded and missing as of Jan. 1, 1944.

Major Problem

OWI labelled accidents in war plants as "a major production and manpower problem" and pointed out that injuries account for four times as many lost man-hours as strikes.

The nation's industrial concerns, OWI continued, have 500,000 workers absent every day because of accidents, while death and injuries on the job are occurring now at the rate of 270 million lost man-days a year. This is equivalentto withdrawal of 900,000 workers for a full year from the production lines, OWI said.

These accidents cost employers $35 a year for every worker employed, according to the report.

"In two respects, these facts appear favorable, according to safety authorities," OWI declared, however.

"Deaths are only two-thirds as frequent per 100,000 workers in this war as in the last and the loss of

German Defenses Below Leningrad Appear Toppling

Three Massive Russian Offensives Score Large Gains In Five Days

GERMAN REPORT SAYS NOVGOROD EVACUATED

BULLETIN

MOSCOW, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The Moscow radio today broadcast an official bulletin announcing the capture of Novgorod on the far northern front above Lake Ilmen.

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Jan. 20.—German defenses along a 110-mile front below Leningrad appeared toppling today under three massive Russian offensives which in five days scored advances up to 19 miles, killed upwards of 22,000 Nazis and wrested at least 160 inhabited places from the enemy.

Among the towns taken by the Russians were three key strongholds west and southwest of long-embattled Leningrad, one of them—Krasnoye Selo—but a scant eight miles above the five-way rail junction of Krasnog-Vardeisk. This junction controls all southwestern rail traffic into Leningrad, as well as much of the communications into Chudovo on the Volkhov river front by way of Toano.

All types of guns—including huge coastal and naval guns on the Russian Baltic fleet—supported the Red army drives which smashed through the most strongly-embedded defense positions yet encountered on the eastern front.

Cruiser Aids

At least one cruiser took part in the engagement when a devastating barrage was laid down against the Nazis, said the Moscow radio.

Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin in an order-of-the-day, announced initial gains of the twin offensive which broke "deep defenses" in the Pulkovo and Oranienbaum areas.

Gen. Ivan Govorov's army, in its five-day twin offensive, inflicted what Stalin termed a "serious defeat" on seven German infantry divisions. After "tenacious" battles

NEW DELHI, Jan. 20.—(INS)—An official disclosure that American forces are in action in Burma alongside Chinese troops fighting under Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell was made today in a communique issued by Lord Louis Mountbatten which credited the combined units for new successes.

While earlier unofficial reports mentioned American troops in this area, today's communique was the first headquarters acknowledgement that they now are seeing. It was not revealed whether the Americans included only officers or non-commissioned men as well.

The communique credited Stillwell's "American and Chinese forces" with capturing the village of Gumga in the jungle-thickened Hukawng

U. S. Preparedness Must Continue After End Of War

Executive Of WPB Says Only Preparedness Will Ward Off Future 'Pearl Harbors'

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(INS)—A demand for immediate planning for complete and continued U. S. military preparedness after the war "to prevent another world conflict" was sounded today by Charles E. Wilson, executive vice-chairman of the War Production Board.

Outlining proposals which he placed before the 25th annual meeting of the Army Ordnance Association, Wilson recommended creation of a standing committee of ordnance and industrial leaders to direct constant research and development and to insure continuous close cooperation between industry and the government in national defense.

After remarking that the human tendency toward war is as inevitable as the tendency toward disease, and brushing off expected cries of "warmonger!" Wilson said:

"I am convinced that had our country this type of set-up, it would have been the most effective insurance against the Pearl Harbor attack."

Wilson emphasized that he was not advocating a doctrine of aggression and brutality, but merely urging a "realistic" view toward war.

The responsibilities of the general committee, whose members would be appointed for overlapping three-year terms, would be similar to those of a war-time chief of staff. High-ranking army and navy officers on the committee would direct research and development utilizing existing facilities, and some government-owned war plants would be maintained in readiness for immediate use. Industry would be required to be prepared constantly for immediate production of war goods.

valley, then crossing the Tanai river deeper into Japanese-held territory. When last reported, the troops still were forging ahead, the bulletin added.

Nipponese counter-attacks in various sectors of the Arakan front were crushed, while American airmen were credited with the destruction of two Japanese fighters and the breaking up of a bomber formation over Fort Hertz valley. Two other enemy planes were listed as probably destroyed and "several" others damaged.

MIDYEAR EXAMS ARE ELIMINATED

UPPER DARBY, Pa., Jan. 20.—(INS)—No sacrifices for the war effort is too great for the pupils of Upper Darby high school.

Nobly and without protest, the students today had submitted to the latest war measure, when Dr. J. C. Nancarrow, principal, declared that the pupils would be forced to forego midyear examinations.

In announcing the measure, Dr. Nancarrow cited the paper shortage, the time the tests would consume and the extra burden which would be imposed on the teachers.

the Russians advanced from 7½ to 12½ miles through "deeply echeloned" Nazi defenses.

They ripped out breaches in the enemy lines from 22 to 25 miles wide, capturing in addition to Krasnoye Selo the enemy bastion of Peterhof and the "important road junction" of Ropsha.

Simultaneously, troops on the Volkhov front gouged a 32-mile wide gap in the long-established German lines above Lake Ilmen. Commanded by the famed Gen. K. Meretskov who smashed Finland's Mannerheim Line in 1940, the Soviet forces surged ahead up to 19 miles.

Taking more than 80 towns and villages, Meretskov's men severed the Leningrad-Novgorod railroad and reached the northwest tip of Lake Ilmen to cut off the Novgorod stronghold from the south. Govorov's forces captured another 80 communities.

On the Volkhov front, the Germans sought to stem the Russian advance, concentrating large forces which they threw "continuously" into counterattacks. Soviet tank and infantry troops, following up a powerful "walking" barrage, smashed the counter-thrusts and after fierce fighting occupied the 80 inhabited places.

In one sector alone, a skillful Red army maneuver threw into "rout" two full German regiments.

Fall Of Novgorod Expected

Fall of Novgorod could be expected in the near future as that rail junction and enemy strongpoint was partially encircled after the Russians captured Syrkovo to the north. To the south, the Red army swept across frozen Lake Ilmen to occupy several places and then continued forging ahead "successfully".

Russian troops advancing northward along the Novosokolniki-Dno railroad were engaged in "particularly stubborn fighting" west of the Stion of Nasva, as the Germans brought up reinforcements and threw successive counter-attacks against the Soviets. All counter-thrusts were repulsed and the Red army captured several inhabited places.

Meantime, the drive by Gen Ivan Vatutin's first Ukrainian army deep into Poland moved to within 17 miles east of the rail junction of Rovno, by capturing the district center of Goscha. In the fighting for this town, the Soviet tank and infantry forces "routed" another German regiment.

New York, Jan. 20.—The Germans announced evacuation of Novgorod, important rail junction north of Lake Ilmen, today shortly after a strong Russian offensive had semi-encircled the city.

According to a DNB dispatch to the controlled press of occupied Europe, the Nazis said the city was "given up".

It previously had been cut off from the north when Soviet forces occupied the rail town of Syrkovo, and from the south as other Red army units swept across the railroad from Lake Ilmen.

shops, setting off a huge conflagration. The landing field itself was pocked with bomb craters; a punishment also suffered by the Perugia runways where the Liberators ruined one of the Luftwaffe's most important fighter stations. Railroad serving the area also were left in wreckage.

As a result of the concentrated assaults by heavy and medium bombers against Rome's communication lines earlier in the week, the Italian capital now has been sealed off temporarily from virtually all rail travel from the north. Official photographs showed that of three major lines down the Italian peninsula, only one still is in operation. Other important lines along the west coast in central Italy also are blocked.

Rail Line Smashed

In addition, the vital Florence-Rome line has been slashed by Fortress bombardiers at Pistoia, Prato and Pontassie in the Florence region.

An official statement from allied headquarters announced that medium weight B-26 Marauders assaulted communication lines at Piombina and Montalto de Castro, some 55 miles northwest of Rome, Tuesday. Marshaling yards, harbor installations and steel works were principal targets, with one stick of bombs bursting squarely across a string of blast furnaces.

The Reita airfield northwest of Rome was written off as temporarily useless, its runways and buildings ravaged from end to end, as a result of accurate bombing from American Mitchells.

More than 130 light bombers and fighter-bombers flew over the rail junction town of Sulmona, 60 miles west of Rome, yesterday, to crisscross the rail yards with bomb bursts which kindled large fires and gutted the station and nearby sheds. The attackers flew in 11 waves to give the village one of the worst poundings dealt out recently to any objective of its size.

BRITISH IN FIFTH ARMY DRIVE TWO MILES FORWARD

failed in their attempt to throw the hard-hitting tommies out of their newly-won positions.

Faced Tough Opposition

The British faced tough opposition all the way along the two miles they picked up amid the foot hills of Mount Aurunci, which itself rears as high as 3,000 feet into the air.

In driving from the Garigliano valley, they were faced with heavy enemy fire from above them most of the time.

The Nazis had strewn the terrain with minefields, and emplaced machine-gun nests in caves and among vantage points in the rocky country through which the British carried out their dogged advance.

The Nazi resistance was particularly strong in the Castel Forte area, two miles from the Garigliano and six miles inland from the sea.

British forces that took Argento pushed on to threaten Minturno from the northeast.

See Action First Time

Prisoners captured reported that the principal Nazi opposition was coming from the 94th Division, many members of which are seeing action for the first time.

(The German DNB agency announced that the Nazi garrison "abandoned" Minturno as the British spearheads pushed relentlessly up to the town.))

On the northern part of the Fifth Army front, in the sector facing Cassino, French troops maintained contact with the enemy, while American patrols crossed the Rapido river in places to probe the Nazi defenses.

The Rapido north of Cassino is only 15 to 20 feet wide and does not represent a serious obstacle for crossing. However, bridging of the stream would be necessary to put troops and vehicles across. Further to the south, though, the Rapido widens to approximately 60 feet at a point four miles below Cassino. There it represents a real barrier for transportation of guns, trucks and other war implements.

Depth of the water is somewhat above normal due to rains, but the river can be forded. The weather incidentally is favorable for offensive operations, being clear and cool.

British Eighth Army artillery exchanged fire with Nazi guns on the Adriatic front, while patrolling of forward positions continued. In general, the front remained unchanged.

In the Crecchio area, six miles inland from Orsogno, British troops ambushed an enemy patrol and inflicted casualties and took some prisoners. Weather on this sector on the long trans-Italian front was fair but cloudy.

RAID ON GERMAN PLANE FACTORIES WAS BIG VICTORY

mated at 40 to 70 per cent destroyed and that the Messerschmidtt plant at Brunswick was almost totally wiped out.

Stimson recalled that at least 153 German planes were destroyed during the American attack on aircraft plants and that 53 additional enemy planes may have been shot down. American losses were 60 bombers and five fighters, Stimson said.

"The magnitude of an attack of this character is difficult to grasp," Stimson stated.

1,200 Planes

He explained that 1,200-odd planes were involved which required approximately 7,000 crew members. If the ground crews also are counted, Stimson said it would show the attack involved at least 100,000 American soldiers.

On the German side, he added, counting air forces, air raid wardens, fire fighters and police there was a possibility that "a million defenders were directly involved or alerted."

The secretary recalled that some concern was expressed following the raid at the delay in announcing results while the German radio was claiming a gigantic victory over the United States.

The secretary explained that at the time of the raid the weather was so bad many bombers were forced to land away from their home fields and that there was delay in checking missing bombers and obtaining detailed reports.

"In assessing results it is important to keep in mind the damage inflicted on the enemy rather than the losses in planes on both sides," Stimson said. "It is more important to destroy a factory producing 200 planes a month than to shoot down 200 enemy planes."

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for kindness and sympathy extended us during our recent bereavement. Also, for floral tributes and cars donated.

SENATOR BUTLER FILES REPORT TO SUPPORT CHARGES

Butler insisted, has resulted in Bolivians stoning the American embassy at La Paz, the capital, and unrest in Mexico and Brazil.

"Instead of being 95 per cent wrong and five per cent right as administration senators said, I find that I was 95.5 per cent right and 4.5 per cent wrong," Butler asserted in a senate speech.

Inordinate Spending

As an example of "inordinate spending," Butler said the administration agreed to pay for complete rehabilitation of Mexican railways at a cost of seven and a half million but that the total will actually be over 100 millions.

Millions which cannot be traced are being spent on production of cinchona and other medical products, he said, and bathtubs and sewing machines are being sent into the Brazilian jungle for rubber workers.

Butler attacked a statement by Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D) Tenn., that in return for 78 millions this country is getting 30,000 tons of rubber a year from Brazil.

"It develops now," Butler explained, "that we were getting 16,000 tons before the war started. The Gillette committee took testimony that now we are getting only 24,000 instead of 30,000 tons. But the first 10,000 tons must go, under the agreement, to Brazil. The result is that we are now getting 2,000 tons less than before the war.

"The principle of the good neighbor policy is above partisan dispute. It is agreed to by both parties. Like the war and its successful prosecution, that principle is not a political issue.

"That makes it all the easier for the New Dealers to make use of it. They can hide benind that principle just as they hide themselves and their purposes back of the war effort."

Other major expenditures in the list of 277 items are:

Airfields and facilities, $346,134,000; military materiel, $125,000,000; public works, $292,964,340; aid to Latin American navies, $24,021,000; air facilities in British Guiana, $66,050,00C; purchase of Cuban sugar, $592,000,000; navy anchorage at Trinidad island, $20,100,000; export-import bank loans and credits $778,982,997; defense plant capital investment, $53,589,850; Mexican silver purchase, $40,184,000; Peruvian gold purchases, $7,367,000; Commodity Credit Corporation, $436,580,000.

Of the millions spent in the Panama Canal zone, Butler charged that most of it was aid to Latin American countries because the payrolls went to their citizens.

INDIVATE SOLDIER VOTE UP TO STATES

15 percent defection in their ranks, and place their margin of strength at approximately a 270-160 ratio.

Although house administration leaders who favor a federal ballot have not taken an official poll, they are conceding privately that only a last-minute switch can keep the senate measure from prevailing in the lower branch.

In the senate two months ago, 24 Democrats and 18 Republicans joined to administer a 42-37 defeat to the federal ballot proposal, and subsequently passed a substitute measure calling on the states to perfect their absentee ballot laws.

A move is now under way to revive the issue in the senate and pass a federal ballot bill, but house members believe the plan will be dropped if the opposition in the lower branch proves as great as current polls indicate.

The original senate bill was amended by the house committee on presidential elections and must be returned to the upper branch for further action if the house adopts it.

However, sponsors of the amendments claim they strengthened the bill and they feel that the senate will accept them.

GIANT ARTILLERY DUEL IN STRAITS

included salvoes of four, in one of the most continuous big-gun exchanges in many months.

Despite terrifying bursts, British civilians who took shelter in basements and dug-outs proceeded in orderly fashion to their places of safety.

An official British announcement said that British south coast artillery fired 80 rounds between 5 and 8 a. m. against shipping in the straits of Dover, with results not immediately determined.

The trans-channel duel was believed to have developed when British guns opened fire on an enemy convoy which is thought to have slipped out of Calais or Boulogne in an attempt to reach the North sea.

A pale moon shone down on the straits when the guns opened up, but the other side of the channel was shut off by a clammy mist in which were reflected the brilliant flashes of exploding British shells.

German shells fell in the vicinity of Dover itself.

The Black Hills of South Dakota are estimated to be nearly a billion and a half years old.

SMASHING ATTACK MADE ON RABAUL BY U. S. BOMBERS

Monday—heaviest loss yet suffered by the Allies during any of the countless onslaughts against the important Japanese port-fortress on New Britain's eastern tip.

The Allied formations, their number undisclosed, swept over the target at midday, catching eight Japanese freighters in Simpson Harbor and four more in Keravia Bay, both in the immediate Rabaul area.

The Dauntless Avenger torpedo and dive bombers, with their escort of Hellcats, Corsairs and Lightnings, roared to the attack at low level regardless of a withering curtain of flak sent up from anti-aircraft barges anchored in the harbor, and shore batteries.

Three Japanese destroyers circled wildly about as the Allied planes appeared overhead, to avoid the bombs which plumeted from gaping bomb bays.

Three Ships Explode

Half-ton and one-ton bombs crashed into the harbor, many of them landing square on their targets. Three of the ships exploded and sank, two more burst into flames and were seen to be sinking, and the other three were hit hard.

The Japanese attempt to intercept the fliers with more than 100 fighters was seen as an indication that the enemy's air strength in the South Pacific is still considerable.

The aerial duels that followed the interception were savage ones, with the Allied planes having the advantage but nevertheless losing a dozen aircraft.

(The Japanese claimed that 200 Allied planes attacked Rabaul, but boasted that 102 of them, "including" 36 probables, were shot down.)

American ground forces registered gains, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters disclosed, on Bougainville, at Empress Augusta Bay, U. S. troops pushed ahead, with supporting artillery fire, to cross the Torokina river and occupy positions near the east lagoon.

The machine-made horseshoe was first patented in 1835 by Henry Burden, who took out further patents in 1843, 1857 and 1862.

Representatives of International Relation study groups of the city attended a meeting sponsored by the International Relations committee of the B.P.W. on Wednesday evening at the Y.W.C.A.

Speaker of the evening was Miss Elsie Calvin of the senior high school history department, who reviewed Walter Lippmann's "U. S. Foreign Policy." Miss Calvin in giving her review said that Lippman's own style was so simple and clear that paraphrasing in as simple terms as his was difficult for a reviewer. Her presentation was forceful and her audience alert.

She suggested as companion reading to "U. S. Foreign Policy," "Rise of American Civilization" by Charles and Mary Beard, "Preview of History" by Raymond Gram Swing, and Woodrow Wilson's speech at Colorado Springs.

Questions and discussion followed. Miss Alice Sterling presided.

The Story Of Famous Diamonds

Diamonds That Have Shared In the Course of World Events

The STAR of SOUTH AFRICA

This diamond was bought by Schalk van Nickert from a native witch-doctor in darkest Africa. The London purchaser ordered it cut to a fine oval, three-sided brilliant of 46½ carats and later sold it to the Countess of Dudley who had it mounted in a tiara. Sixty-five years ago the following statement by a world-known British colonial official, now famous in the annals of history, rightly prophesied the future destiny of South Africa when he said: "This diamond, gentlemen, is the rock on which the future success of South Africa will be built."

PLAYING RIGHT INTO HITLER'S HANDS

WHATEVER the ultimate meaning of the Pravda "peace rumor" incident, it appears a shocking Soviet blunder that played right into the hands of the Huns.

No wonder Berlin is reported "extremely amused" by the Moscow-published hint of a separate-peace dicker between the British and the slimy Von Ribbentrop.

Any word or act that tends to sow distrust among the United Nations is so much velvet for the Nazis.

If the Germans now don't set about concocting new ways for driving wedges between Russia and Britain, Russia and America or America and Britain it won't be because the inscrutable Kremlin hasn't given them an example of deviousness in doing it.

Dopesters, fortune tellers and retired armchair strategists all around the world are trying to figure out the reason for the publication in Pravda, a Communist party organ, of an apparently unauthenticated dispatch that was an indirect attack on one of Russia's war allies.

According to would-be readers of the Soviet mind the Kremlin's cryptogram was intended to warn both Britain and America to keep out of the Polish boundary dispute; to express disapproval of trends in the Balkans, where the mysterious peace rumor was said to have originated; to give notice to the rest of the United Nations that Russia won't be dictated to at the peace table, and so on, ad lib.

But however it was meant, it was a clumsy, inept and all-around mischievous procedure that couldn't possibly do anything to improve Allied relations and could cause incalculable harm now, at the peace-making and in the postwar period.

At the Moscow conference and at Teheran the Soviet government, with America, Britain and China, pledged united action to win the war and to establish an international organization to keep the peace. Is the Pravda episode supposed to demonstrate Russia's idea of inter-Allied co-operation? We hope not.

From now until the real peace comes, doubtless, a flock of peace rumors will be hatched with or without Germany's connivance. The Allies will have to take these rumors in stride, refusing to permit them to lessen in the slightest degree the drive for victory on all fronts.

The Allies must learn to expect and to discount diplomatic blunders such as Pravda made, presumably with Stalin's approval, in printing the separate-peace tale.

But if the United Nations are to stick together in the crucial days immediately ahead and if they are to carry their policy of united action into the peace-writing and peace-establishment period, each of them will have to live up to its pledges.

If Allied co-operation means anything it means co-operation all the time, without erratic forays by one of the United Nations against the others.

Russia's great Red army, with material aid from America and Britain, is daily accomplishing marvels against the Nazis. The gallant Russian people merit the admiration of all nations. But the Soviet government's territorial and political policies remain to be clarified.

Allied unity may not be proof against all errors of judgment. But there can be no excuse for a diplomatic blunder by any of the United Nations which, at one of the most critical moments of the war, could be interpreted by the merciless Nazis as a sign that the anti-Axis entente is cracking.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ISLAND HOPPING

Island hopping in the Pacific has received at least implied criticism from some military leaders, including General MacArthur. Without defending that procedure in toto, Gen. Thomas Holcomb, retired Marine commander, contends that island hopping was necessary as far as it has gone in the Pacific and that more of it will be necessary.

The Allies must converge upon Japan from all directions, he asserts, and one of those directions lies along the chain of major islands leading directly to Japan's door. The advance from island to island is as much a part of the grand squeeze play on Tokyo as the Russian drive or the coming invasion of Europe.

"The Russians," says General Holcomb, "battle from village to village across hundreds of miles to reach the Rumanian and the old Polish borders. But no one has ever disparaged the Russians for village hopping. Obviously their only sure course is to drive the invaders back by routing them from their defensive strong points, one by one.

"Certain amphibious operations are necessary in preparation for hitting Japan's greatest bastions and the Allies will take as many of the islands as they absolutely need with the least possible expenditure of men, time and materials."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

UPHOLD SET RULES IN VISITING TOT

Over the years, numerous young women who have taken care of young children in their homes have told me that whereas they had no trouble in guiding the youngster happily when alone with him, they found him uncontrollable in the presence of the mother.

For instance, one child of eighteen months, who ate heartily when the mother was absent, would always create a scene over eating when the mother was present. Often a nursery school or kindergarten teacher has described a little child who is very happy and cooperative until the mother appears. These facts do not apply to nearly all mothers, of course.

I have always admired the good services of successful foster parents. One such writes:

Cared For Infant

"We have three sons, fifteen, twelve and four years old respectively, and a daughter two. At various times during the past sixteen years I have taken small children into our home to care for them. A year ago I began caring for a little girl twenty-seven months old whose young parents had been separated since before her birth. I got her from an infants' home and the mother is employed."

Then the writer relates some of her experiences with this child: "She seemed quite happy and contented. She fed herself very nicely and was always busy amusing herself, took her nap and went to bed at night without any fussing and was toilet-trained, by day.

"At first Carol refused all vegetables. After the first week, I served a small portion of vegetable first. As soon as that was eaten, she was given the rest of the meal. The mother had said we would need to coax her to eat. Within a few days she was eating her meals because she, apparently, was hungry. It took about three weeks to achieve night dryness." Then she describes her tantrums which, with wise treatment, gradually disappeared, except when the mother visited her.

After a few months, the mother took Carol visiting among her relatives, during which time the child refused to take a nap, to be bathed or to eat unless she was coaxed to do so. On her return she had to be trained all over again. She soiled and wetted her bed and indulged in tantrums (screaming and throwing herself on the floor and kicking.)

Several months later Carol went with her mother to visit an aunt. This aunt reported that Carol again refused to bathe, take her nap or wear her pajamas at night. "Baths have always been fun for her in our home. Naps and bedtime and discipline taken as a matter of course when alone with us."

During a later visit by the mother, "Carol cried at meals and refused to eat. The mother coaxed her. When her mother tried to put Carol to bed, Carol had a tantrum and her mother told her she need not retire then." On still another visit by the mother, Carol cried for four and one-half hours, the mother carrying her most of this time.

Apparently the mother took supreme command when she visited, and kept no account of the ways the child had been accustomed to. Naturally, the child sensed this, and had her way when the mother was there.

This problem applies to many mother (and fathers) who are working away from their child and see the child only occasionally. Hard as it may be to do, this parent should so cooperate with the most-of-the-time caretaker that the child may be held to one good system of rules and ways of doing.

For the working mother who is able to spend some time daily with her child, I have written a special bulletin, "Suggestions to Working Mothers," to be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a three-cent stamp on a self-adressed envelope.

Selving Parent Problems

Q. We mothers who work find some of our problems with our children increasing. Have you any special helps for us?

A. Yes; my "Suggestions to Working Mothers" may be had without cost by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. Since beginning to read your column a few months ago, I have required my daughter (12) to come into the house the moment the lights appear. She says she is the only one of the children on the street who has to do this.

A. Reply to this complaint just once, saying it is none of your busines how other parents bring up their children but that this is "our way". Then stick to your program and be proud to be one wise and brave mother protecting your child among a hundred other mothers who don't.

ARE YOU ASHAMED OF YOUR BELOVED?

"I have just been in an argument about the popular song, 'People Will Say We're in Love', contending that no man should marry any girl of the type of the one supposed to be uttering those warnings. We've put the settlement of the argument up to you. What is your opinion?"
—Larry.

Answer: I have not yet seen the show featuring this song but I can generalize to the extent of saying that no girl ashamed of the attentions complained of in the song referred to is fit to marry the man thus addressed as long as she is of that mind. Any girl truly in love with a man would be made happier by his collecting souvenirs of their association, by his praising her "folks", by the love glow in his eyes when he looks at her, etc., etc. As it strikes me, the tone of the song referred to is the complaint of some married woman afraid that people are "suspecting things", rather than that of a single girl who, if she is innocent, would find nothing in the attentions listed to be ashamed of, if really bestowed by a man who loves her and whom she loves.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

What causes wars?

So many writers, economists, scientists, educators, preachers and statemen have asked that question.

Because, not until we know what causes wars will we be able to live in a world without wars.

I haven't seen a real answer to the question yet. It seems to be one of those unsolvable problems like the common cold or what is love.

But I think I can come pretty close to the bottom of the thing.

Every day on my way to work, I pass an abandoned gasoline station.

Six months ago the owners moved out—couldn't pay their bills.

It had been a nice gas station, right on a busy intersection. There were flowers, a little lawn, always a fresh coat of paint, pleasant people waiting on you.

Then, the station was locked up. Soon the flowers wilted, the grass dried up, the paint started to peel.

The next month, somebody had broken every window in the little house, the door had been forced open, the door handles disappeared.

After a while the house itself was being pulled down, slat by slat, floorboard by floorboard.

The police tried to find the culprit, but no use.

Last week, somebody had yanked the covers off the two pumps. Yesterday, the insides of the pump had disappeared. This morning the pumps had gone.

That's what causes wars.

Covetousness. Greed. Thievery.

As long as there are sneaks among human beings people who want to get something for nothing, men who don't respect another's property, as long as there is vandalism, dishonestly, graft, contempt of authority, there will be fighting among people and among nations.

What's the use of high-sounding phrases and sermons of noble intent?

To make the world better, you first have to make its inhabitants better.

There will never be permanent peace as long as mothers beat their children and men kick dogs, as long as there is crime and jails and courts and handcuffs and poverty and debt.

Before there can be peace on earth, there must first be peace and honor in the hearts of men.

The World and the Mud Puddles

AN ISLAND EMPIRE

Admiral Nimitz is not a man given to rash predictions, so when he announced recently that the American forces in the South Pacific were ready to launch new offensive operation against the Japs in the immediate future his words carry hope and encouragement. It was not just another statement.

There has been evidence to bear him out for some time. The recent attempts of the American fleet to entice the Jap ships out for a fight indicates strength and confidence. No naval commander, five thousand miles from his home base, would do that unless he had something to back him up. The Japs know this, of course, which explains their reluctance to risk their capital ships in an engagement.

The area is so vast and the scale of operations must be co-ordinated between so many task forces that it may be some time after the big offensive is under way before we are fully aware of its scope and importance. Our reports will, in all probability, come in peacemeal from widely scattered sectors. Only when we fit them together can the size of the campaign be realized or estimated. The Japs will know it long before we will.

In this connection certain facts have been disclosed concerning the islands of the South Pacific which the Japs have seized since World War No. 1, and contrary to all agreements made at the time, have fortified. These are amazing facts. They have constructed many and various sorts of defense fortifications in a very thorough manner—concrete forts, if you will, constructed of reinforced cement, covered with plenty of soil and trees planted thereon. The Marines have found a lot of these and it has cost a heavy toll in the lives of Marines. Like the Germans, they have constructed underground hangars for their airplanes and underground boathouses for their submarines. So thoroughly have these been built that the heaviest bombs dropped by our war planes have been unable to crack them. It has been necessary to take them by land assault.

There are a great many of these islands—rendezvous of the Japanese that must be taken to open safe sea routes for our ships in the South Pacific. It is going to be a long, hard journey, testing the skill and strength of our Armed Forces, on land, on sea and in the air.

OLIVES

Olives make pretty good eating. They are especially rich in oil, or fat.

They have about the same amount of fat as ice cream does. A person is not likely to eat enough olives to make much difference in his calories.

The calorie is the unit of measurement when speaking of nourishment. When we speak of a persons weight we say so many pounds. When we speak of nutrition we say so many calories. A half ounce of butter or a small glass of milk equal 100 calories.

It takes about 15 small olives to make 100 calories. An adults should eat about 2500 calories every day and hard work requires more.

Olives help the appetite to call for more food. They also supply some minerals and vitamins.

Polish Underground Test Tube For Sabotage
No More Work Stoppage In Steel Industry
Mystery About Willkie Letter Is Deepening

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The advance of the victorious Red armies into Poland gives the Polish underground the opportunity to set an example for underground movements elsewhere in Hitler's enslaved Europe.

Russia, driving the Nazis before her, has become the first of the United Nations actually to begin the liberation of a continental country conquered by the German wehrmatch.

Although the Polish government-in-exile in London has decreed that the Polish underground will not function unless diplomatic recognition is accorded the exiled group, observers believe the "out-law" patriots in Poland will come to the aid of the surging Russian hordes.

In any event, what the Polish underground does now may set the pace for French, Dutch, Belgian and Norwegian outlaw groups when their hour of freedom finally strikes. "Poland now will be a test tube for sabotage," one high Washington observer has commented.

Despite the ramifications of the Soviet-Polish diplomatic crisis, official Washington believes the rank and file in Poland will act "realistically," and realize that their paramount duty is to drive every German from Polish soil.

"The Poles should put first things first," Senator Warren Austin (R., of Vermont, said. "They must aid the Russians in every way to defeat and break the common enemy."

Many Washington observers are sure there will be no further wholesale work stoppages in the war-vital steel industry, despite the forthcoming head-on clash between the United Steel Workers (C. I. O.) and government wage stabilizers.

One high administration "hold-the-line" expert expressed the view that C. I. O. President Philip Murray greatly regretted the recent abortive one-day steel strike and would guard against future disturbances. Murray is labor's leading exponent of the "no-strike" pledge.

Moreover, this official claimed, the administration will stand firm on its wage rate freeze. He predicted a flat defeat for the steel workers in their demands for a 17-cent hourly pay boost—all outside the limits of the "Little Steel" formula—and expressed the opinion that it could be made to stick.

Administration quarters interpreted President Roosevelt's seizure of the railroads as concrete evidence of his determination to hold the in-

My grievances air when I write.
I never say sadly that things have gone badly,
My letters are cheery and bright.
A gloomy epistle's as bad as a missile
Intended his courage to shake.
So, daily I write him this news to delight him—
Canned salmon is better than steak.

I tell not a word of the troubles I've heard of,
To keep him light-hearted I wish.
I wouldn't upset him with grumbling or fret him
By saying I'm fed up on fish.
I won't say I sicken of a la king chicken,
For that would be spilling the grief.
I won't set him thinking morale here is sinking
For want of a cut of roast beef.

My letters are cheery and not a bit dreary,
I give him the good news he begs.
I don't even pound out that mother has found out
A dozen new ways to cook eggs.
I let him keep repeating what sailors are eating,
That chow in the Navy is great.
That what was once "ham on," today is pale salmon,
Is something I'll never relate.

Great Game Of Politics

Mr. Walker Always Tries

Washington, Jan. 20.

NO DEGREE of success has attended the earnest efforts of the docile Mr. Frank Walker, chairman of the Democratic National committee, to put into effect the two very smart pieces of fourth-term political strategy which the president thought up entirely by himself. But that isn't Mr. Walker's fault. Certainly, he tried. Always, Mr. Walker tries.

IN THIS matter, while he made almost no progress at all, he should have the satisfaction of knowing that no one else could have done more. One of these Rooseveltian ideas was to bury the New Deal name until after the election. The other was to postpone both Democratic and Republican conventions until some time in September, thus reducing the campaign from a four-month to a five-week affair. The president made quite plausible arguments for both propositions. The manner in which he presented them imparted a fine, nonpartisan flavor, and that was the way Mr. Walker tried to sell them, too. His failure was complete and he is a discouraged man.

SO FAR as burying the "New Deal" name is concerned, it is true it is no longer used in the official Democratic publicity. It will not appear in the committee literature of the near future and will be shunned by some of the Democratic orators who speak under committee sponsorship. And, of course, if, as expected, Mr. Roosevelt is again the candidate, the platform, the nomination speech and the speech of acceptance all can be kept free of it. One would think this would be enough. But, it just is not. The trouble is that neither the wicked Republicans nor the even more wicked anti-New Deal Democrats nor the bulk of the still more wicked newspapers will cooperate. Even part of the New Deal press and some of the New Dealers are not cooperating.

UNDER THESE circumstances, the efforts of Mr. Walker to implement the desire of his chief have bogged down. It was a good political idea if everybody would cooperate, but the committee can't do it alone, and to keep on trying threatens to become ridiculous. The Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats regarded it as an attempt upon the part of the president to rid himself of a discredited designation, while certain strong New Dealers felt that, despite the president's rhapsodical recital of the New Deal achievements, if he is permitted to abandon its name, the next step will be to abandon its "principles."

ACCORDINGLY the suggestion has met with a feeble response, though is has not fallen quite as flat as the suggestion for a five weeks' campaign dating from September conventions. That is "out the window." The Republicans already have fixed their date as June 26, in Chicago and the Democratic committee, which will meet in a few days, is scheduled to pick the same city, and for approximately July 10. The basic idea behind the short-campaign proposal, as advanced by the president, was to "minimize politics" while the war is on. At least that was the way it was advertised. Of course, it is a laudable notion, but in this case it was a little too obvious that it would be very greatly to the advantage of Mr. Roosevelt's fourth-term candidacy, operating strongly against whatever Republican should be named against him.

PRESIDENT FOR twelve years, entrenched in the White House, with a vast jobholder army behind him and supported by well-nourished political machines in all the great cities, a short campaign would be just pie for the president, who needs neither a new organization nor further advertisement. On the other hand, five weeks would not give the Republicans time to organize nor the Republican candidate a chance to cover the country, much less raise money and distribute literature. The whole thing was so transparent that it was not taken seriously by many Democrats and was treated with scorn by the Republicans.

TRUE, poor, plodding, patient Mr. Walker made a few tentative advances toward his Republican counterpart but, repulsed, dropped back to report nothing doing in that direction. And here, too, the New Dealers could not go it alone. For one thing to have put their convention off until September would have been equivalent to a declaration of his fourth-term candidacy by Mr. Roosevelt. The whole idea of a "draft," which pretense is still being kept up, would have become too absurd. For another thing, the state and city Democratic politicians, for a variety of local reasons, did not take kindly to the postponement proposal.

SO, Mr. Walker isn't pushing anything particularly at the moment except the "support-the-Commander in Chief" slogan, which is fun-

War Heroes And Screen Stars Aid Bond Sales Here

Make Appearance At Meeting At Cathedral Auditorium Wednesday Afternoon

Hollywood screen actors and heroes of the Atlantic and Pacific theatres of war added to the Fourth War Loan campaign efforts Wednesday afternoon in the Cathedral when a "Hollywood Cavalcade" was presented through the sponsorship of the New Castle theatre owners.

From Hollywood came Leslie Brooks, tall and blonde and svelte, to do her bit in the war bond sales. With her was Edgar Buchanan, whimsical character actor whose screen portrayals have been a feature of every picture in which he has appeared. They were introduced by Edward Scofield, also of Hollywood.

Men who have been in active service on several fronts were introduced and took part in the program. Corporal Virgil Kennedy, the first one introduced, was severely wounded in the North African campaign. Lieut. James E. Oyer is a pilot and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and air medal for gallant service in the Atlantic theatre.

Cpl. Billie Doris was wounded in New Guinea and has been treated at Deshon General hospital. Chief Boatswain's Mate Thomas Sortino of the Coast Guard lost his right arm near Casablanca, was taken prisoner and treated in a German field hospital but when Casablanca was taken by the Allies was taken to an American hospital. Lieut. William F. Miffledorf, a pilot, was forced down near the Belgian border and got back to England by means of the "underground". All of them told of their experiences.

Mayor John F. Haven welcomed the visiting stars and the crowd, and Judge W. Walter Braham acknowledged an introduction. The senior high school band was on stage and played several numbers directed by Joe F. Replogle.

Members of the G. A. C.'s of the senior high school acted as ushers and distributed bond pledges, many of which were signed.

damental for the fourth-term effort. What Mr. Walker wants most to do now is to turn the chairmanship over to his scheduled successor, Mr. Robert E. Hannegan, of Missouri. He never wanted the place anyhow. For twelve years he has been doing one mean little odd job after another for the president, none of which he sought and at none of which he has succeeded, not because of any lack of ability or spirit in himself but because he consistently was asked to do almost impossible things without being given real authority. Nevertheless, Mr. Walker always has tried. No one can say he has not tried.

Await Address Of Dr. Gerald Wendt

New Castle Executives Club members are looking forward with interest to the coming address of Dr Gerald Wendt, science editor, who will address them on January 28, at the dinner meeting in The Castleton.

Kitchens without stoves, houses with sliding partitions, and without light fixtures; miniature furnaces which will heat an entire house; synthetic rubber, far better than the natural product; all-plastic autos, with motors which will average better than 50 miles to a gallon of gas; and dozens of other wonders of the post-war world will be discussed in this peepshow of the future.

POST-WAR FASHIONS

CHICAGO.—(INS)—Postwar feminine clothes will be eye-openers in colors and trimmings, and will be rip, shine and fade proof as well, a university professor, who is also a business analyst, predicted today. The fashion forecaster, Prof. Chester E. Willard, director of business relations at Northwestern University School of Commerce asserted women will demand them as a reaction to the WPB streamlined, color restricted clothes they are wearing today.

State Highways To Be Improved When War Ends

Secretary Of Highways Envisages Five Hundred Million Dollar Program

READING, Pa., Jan 20.—(INS)—Secretary of Highways John U. Shroyer envisaged today a five hundred million dollar postwar road improvement program including the construction of six-lane highways in traffic-clogged areas.

The proposed program, which would require more than five years to complete, would provide employment for more than 15,000 state workers and 33,000 employes on the "lines of supply," he told the Reading Automobile Club last night.

Shroyer estimated approximately $80,000,000 would be earmarked for contract construction $10,000,00 for purchase of rights-of-way, and a similar sum for the stabilization of maintenance equipment and personnel.

"The department's policy under the Martin administration is to construct adequate highways and not the policy of selecting small mileages of monumental highways with the result of neglect and physical bankruptcy of our highway system," he declared. "We will build two, three, and four-lane highways to meet traffic requirements and in exceptionally congested urban areas we are constructing six-lane highways."

He said the proposed program compared with the $50,000,000 road expenditure in 1941 and $64,000,000 in 1930.

"Our comprehensive program of highway development includes projects in every section of every county of Pennsylvania," he declared. "The Lincoln, William Penn, Benjamin Franklin, National Pike, Lakes-To-Sea, Perry, Roosevelt, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Susquehanna Trail, Lackawanna Trail, and all other important inter-state and intra-state highways have been carrying an ever-increasing volume and weight of commercial traffic . . . Extensive improvements are contemplated on all of these."

Drought Threatens Winter Grain Crops

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20. — The limited water storage capacity of Pennsylvania's soil was blamed today for the drought which the state agriculture department said currently threatens winter grain crops.

The frozen soil surface and a lack of normal rain or protective snow were other reasons given by the department for the poor condition of wheat and rye, "which got off to a poor start because of dry weather at seeding time."

The department reported that wells and springs are dry in many sections of the state, particularly the central and north central counties, making it necessary for farmers to haul water for livestock in near-zero temperatures. In many areas wells have not "recovered" from summer drought.

Hopes for more favorable condi- in the near future were based on precipitation and water table records of the state geologic survey, which revealed a 54-year normal average of three inches in January and February.

Slight relief was reported from rains earlier this month, but the department said little water penetrated the frozen ground, most of it draining into small streams, causing them to overflow their banks.

MAN IS KILLED BY SAILOR'S AUTO

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 20.—William Jackson Duckworth, 74, of Parkers Landing, R. D. 4, died at the Butler County Memorial Hospital late Tuesday night as the result of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile, driven by George Crawford of the United States Navy, of East Brady, R. D. 1.

According to state police, Crawford was driving south from Parker on Route 268, through a heavy fog, when Duckworth appeared in front of the machine and was struck before the driver could stop the car.

Crawford, who is home on furlough, said he gave the injured man every assistance before he was removed to the local hospital, where he died shortly after being admitted.

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that a child could do it, but once tried, you'll never again be without it.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of very wonderful cough syrup. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that's surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Asthma Mucus Loosened While You Sleep

Say Thousands of Sufferers

Choking, gasping, wheezing, recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma ruin your sleep and rob your blood of vitally important oxygen because you can't get air in and out of your lungs properly. But now it is no longer necessary to suffer from these terrible attacks without the benefit you may receive from a physician's prescription called Mendaco. Within a very short time after the first dose, Mendaco ingredients start circulating thru the blood, thus reaching the smallest as well as the largest Bronchial tubes where they usually quickly help liquefy, loosen and remove thick strangling mucus (phlegm), thereby promoting freer breathing and more restful sleep. In fact, Mendaco has proved so successful in helping thousands of sufferers from recurring spasms of Bronchial Asthma that it is sold under a guarantee of money back unless completely satisfactory. So get Mendaco from your druggist today for only 60c.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

flation line. Otherwise, it was said, Mr. Roosevelt could have saved himself a lot of trouble by merely acceding to the railroad brotherhood's wage requests.

Labor, business and agriculture are going to be told clearly and strongly that 1944 is the big year for the United Nations and there must be no break-through on the home front. The administration is going to be tough and make it stick.

The mystery surrounding the letter purportedly written by Harry Hopkins, presidential adviser, has deepened with Washington political observers firmly convinced the missive is, in fact, a forgery. To politicos, this is evident because of the justice department's determination in conducting a full dress grand jury investigation into the matter.

The letter was purportedly written by Hopkins to Dr. Umphrey Lee, reported senatorial aspirant from Texas. It hinted at Hopkins' alleged control over Wendell Willkie, whom he reportedly believed would be the 1944 presidential candidate on the Republican ticket.

The letter was used in the book "One Man—Wendell Willkie," by C. Nelson Sparks, former Republican mayor of Akron, Ohio, a former Willkie intimate and now his avowed political enemy.

Sparks is defended by some on the grounds that he very probably accepted the letter in good faith, had no knowledge that it was a forgery until Hopkins branded it as such, and therefore is not guilty of any criminal violation of the law.

But and this is the amusing part of the tale for old-time politicians, the Democratic administration has been put in the position of trying to clear the record of a Republican presidential aspirant who has been smeared by a faction of his own party.

Truly, politics makes strange bedfellows!

The AAF has fitted out a type of bomber as a sort of flying battleship—all guns and no bombs but tons of ammunition. Flying magazine reports. The Germans know about it and shy away from formations in which planes.

A THEORY OF COLORS

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—A theory to account for most of the flower colors, particularly the reds and blues and their variations, was advanced today by a professor emeritus of physical chemistry at Cornell. He is Dr. Wilmer D. Bancroft, who said that the red pigments in leaves, fruits and flowers, and the blue pigments in flowers and fruits are mostly due to anthocyanims (coloring matter in the cell sap of plants). The red in the tomato and in the watermelon, however, and in the pink-fleshed Texas grapefruit, is produced by a different substance lycopene.

Senator Guffey Not To Resign Committee Post

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—(INS)—United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey held to his position as chairman of the senatorial campaign committee and announced "he was not going to resign—at least, not at present."

Guffey met in Pittsburgh with Allegheny county Democratic leaders for the last of eastern conferences on the subject of a state ticket.

Guffey's resignation had been demanded by Senator Byrd of Virginia in the wake of Guffey's charge that an "unholy alliance" of southern Democrats and northern Republicans had killed the "Green-Lucas soldier vote bill."

French Indo-China Is Again Attacked

CHUNGKING, Jan. 20.—(INS)—New attacks by American Mitchell bombers against Japanese positions in French Indo-China were announced today by Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, who revealed that heavy damage was caused in vital enemy installations.

The attacks started Tuesday with an assault on the dock area of Campha, where two big buildings were destroyed and an oil dump set afire. The following day, other Mitchell formations escorted by fast fighter craft hit Japanese barracks in the Monkay region. Bombs fell on the objectives, covering the target with flames and smoke visible 10 miles away, the communique reported.

RUSSIANS POURING 'UNENDING' STREAM INTO FRONT LINES

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The Red army, which is pressing three massive offensives south of Leningrad, was reported pouring an "unending" stream of troops into the front lines today.

Marshal Tito's Forces Advance

LONDON, Jan. 20. — (INS)—Smashing new offensive successes, in which two important railroad lines were cut and more than 400 Germans killed in an attack on a motor convoy, were announced by the free Yugoslav radio today in a broadcast reporting Marshal Tito's forces have been swelled by men from other national armies.

The broadcast, quoting an army of liberation communique, declared that fierce fighting now is in progress in the Croat coastal area and in western Bosnia and added that the Yugoslavs are developing their best offensive drives in eastern Bosnia.

Two main rail lines, including one linking Zagreb with Belgrade, were severed by the partisan armies which sent five hard-hitting spearheads across that vital link at different places.

Big German Siege Guns Are Paraded In Leningrad Today

MOSCOW, Jan. 20—(INS)—Giant German siege guns preceded a Nazi force through Leningrad's streets today—but it was an entirely different sort of procession than that which the enemy high command anticipated when the artillery was trundled to the city's outskirts 29 months ago.

The heavy and "super-heavy" rifles had pounded the former czarist capital many times during the last two years and more. But, when the Red army went over to the offensive five days ago, the Russians captured the enemy batteries.

While great Soviet reserve forces poured through Leningrad to bolster Gen. Leonid Godorov's forces, the siege guns were being trailed through the city by hordes of dour-looking Germans also captured in the "big push".

said Allied forces were enlarging their beachheads and that recently 3,100 Japanese dead were counted, while American losses were 228 killed and 694 wounded.

Meanwhile the Secretary said that American and Allied airmen were continuing to exact a heavy toll of Japanese shipping.

"However, the Japanese are reinforcing their air strength and they are becoming more aggressive," Stimson emphasized.

The Secretary said that during the past week he conferred with Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, Allied air chief in the Southwest Pacific. He said Kenney was in Washington to discuss plans for future operations and to outline his personnel and materiel needs for such moves.

In the Central Pacific, Stimson said, Army and Navy airmen were continuing to pound Japanese bases.

The latest assault announced by the Navy was by Navy planes against the vital Japanese base on Kusaie Island in the Caroline group. This was the first attack by American forces in this area of the mandates.

The attack occurred in daylight on January 17, and was carried out by Navy search planes which blasted shore facilities on the island. The Navy gave the location of Kusaie as being southwest of the Marshall Islands and described the outpost as a "Japanese air base".

The assault was considered significant in view of the fact it was the first raid on the Central Pacific deep into the enemy's mandated islands which stretch across the Pacific almost to the Philippines.

CHECK-OFF DEMED

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—(INS)—A check-off of union dues was denied Local 1599, CIO United Steel Workers of America, at the Verona plant of the Ingalls Iron Works Company in a WLB ruling.

The regional War Labor Board pointed out its action had been taken "without prejudice" to the question of check-off "in present or future contract negotiations."

More Wood Cutters Must Be Provided

NEW YORK Jan. 20.—(INS)—A "catastrophic shortage of paper" will result unless the War Manpower Commission provides more labor to cut pulpwood and expands the program devised last August to revise the selective service rules to keep men in wood-cutting work, the American Paper & Pulp Association warned today.

"Required domestic paper and paperboard production for 1944 is between 16,000,000 and 17,000,000 tons," the association said. "A shortage of some 3,000,000 tons for the year is inevitable unless a broad program of remedial measures is inaugurated."

Pulpwood inventories have dropped abopt 15 per cent, according to the organization, and currently are enough for only 13,000,000 to 14,000,000 tons of paper.

Name Investigator For Steel Wage Case

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today assigned Charles R. Ward, labor department conciliator, to investigate the deadlocked wage negotiations between the United States Steel Corp. and the CIO steelworkers union.

It was understood that Ward already is in Pittsburgh, site of the negotiations between the company and the union for the past month, and may move into the dispute immediately.

The tone of Miss Perkins' telegram to John A. Stephens, vice-president of U. S. Steel, indicated, however, that Stephens probably was correct in his contention that further negotiations were "futile" and that the case should be certified to the War Labor Board.

ONE MINER HALTS MINING

ISABELLA, Pa., Jan. 20.—(INS)—Failure of one miner to pay a $15 fine imposed by the United Mine Workers of America today forced a complete stoppage of operations at the Weirton Steel Company's Isabella mine in Fayette County. It was estimated 550 men were out.

A union local meeting was scheduled by the officers seeking to end the work stoppage, according to local President R. P. Coughenour. A company spokesman said there was no dispute with the management.

The strike started when the miners refused to enter the pit with the delinquent member.

SAYS MORE WORKERS NEEDED

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 20.—(INS)—Another million workers for war industries and at least 200,000 for food, fuel and utilities operation are needed in 1944, a manpower conference in Camden was told today.

Ira C. Yeager, Camden area director of the WMC told the group that there will be no letdown in manpower requirements until the European war is successfully concluded.

"Based on conditions and the outlook as it exists today," Yeager said, "the shortage in manpower may become more stringent 1944 than it was in 1943."

SURPLUSES IN FUNDS OF STATE

Governor Martin, Starting Second Year, Tells Of Plans For State

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Gov. Edward Martin embarked upon the second year of his administration today pointing to an anticipated budget surplus of one hundred million dollars and proposed a 12-point postwar improvement program including reduction of real estate taxes.

In a radio address over a statewide network last night marking the end of his first year in office, the governor said approximately sixty million dollars of the excess revenue would be in the general fund and the balance in the motor license fund when the current biennium ends in May 1945.

"I'm going to recommend to the legislature that the money be used for postwar work," he explained at a news conference which preceded his address. "The surplus is not the result of the smartness of anybody, it's just that tax collections have been better than we expected."

Must Win Victory

Governor Martin told his radio audience that while Pennsylvania was drafting plans for the postwar era, "all our energies must be used in support of our men and women on the far-flung fighting fronts now maintained by the United States." He said, however, that it was "reasonable" to map a definite improvement program embracing:

(1) Equal educational opportunities regardless of race, creed or color (2) Reduction of real estate tax burdens to encourage people to purchase their own homes (3) Razing unsanitary slum areas and banning stream pollution (4) Flood Control (5) Establishments of recreational centers and readjustment of penal and mental institutions (6) Community airports (7) A modern highway system to eliminate traffic "bottlenecks" (8) Low industrial taxes (9) Conservation of natural resources (10 Rehabilitation, hospitalization and education of war veterans (11) Governmental economies to increase current surpluses and (12) Teaching an appreciation of America.

Accumulate Surpluses

"We now have an accumulated surplus in all our funds," he said. "By reasons of savings in governmental costs and wartime tax collections we estimate there will be a surplus at the end of the biennium of more than one hundred million dollars, as against the deficit of seventy-one million dollars left by the Earle administration.

"In other words, we will be one hundred and seventy-one million dollars better off than we were five years ago, and our taxpayers have had the benefit of a tax reduction of forty-five million dollars a year."

The next legislature would be urged to adopt anti-stream pollution laws and the first senatorial and legislative reapportionment since 1921, Governor Martin asserted.

"The job of every American now, as it was 12 months ago, is to aid in the speedy winning of the war," he declared. "The work of pressure groups should be postponed for the duration. This includes education, labor, welfare, agriculture, tax reform groups, management, industrialists, veterans' groups and those demanding subsidies."

Several Charges Against Pair After Auto Chase

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—(INS)—William S. Peace, 60, of Rydal, wealthy Montgomery County real estate operator, and his wife, Natalie, 54, were held by Quaker city police on a variety of charges today following a 70-mile-an-hour police chase through North Philadelphia.

Police said Peace's automobile allegedly struck another car near Broad and Pike streets and failed to stop after the accident. Peace was halted by a wrecking car at Broad and Champlost streets, several miles way, after a 70-mile-an-hour chase by police red cars.

The couple was taken to a police station, where, police said, an argument ensued. Mrs. Peace allegedly snatched a pair of spectacles off Sergt. Charles Newns, who took the pair into custody, and crushed them in her hands. Then her husband punched Newns in the face, detectives reported.

A police surgeon pronounced both Mr. and Mrs. Peace intoxicated. Peace is charged with drunken driving assault and battery on an officer resisting arrest reckless driving and failing to stop after an accident. His wife is accused of being intoxicated assault and battery on an officer and resisting arrest.

A hearing will be held later in the day at the Broad and Haines street police station.

Jesus Teaches in Parables

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 23 is Mark 4:1-34, the Golden Text being Mark 4:23, "If any man hath ears to hear, let him hear.")

JESUS AND His disciples went to the shore of the Sea of Galilee, and great crowds followed them. So great was the crowd that Jesus stepped into a boat and stood or sat in it while He talked to the people on the shore.

He talked to them in parables, short stories about things with which they were all familiar but with a deeper meaning—as if your mother told you a story that was meant to suggest to you that the nice, helpful boy or girl picked up their playthings and clothing and hung them up, without telling you so directly.

The first parable was about the man who sowed his fields. It may have been that from where Jesus and the many people listening to him were, a man really was sowing seed in the ground. Some of the seed the man sowed, said Jesus, fell by the wayside—as it often does. Wild birds flying over saw it—because you know birds' eyes are very keen—and they ate it, so there was no crop from that seed.

Fell On Rocky Soil

Some of the seed fell on rocky ground which had only a thin covering of soil. This seed grew up, but so shallow was the earth covering that as soon as the sun came up hot, the plants withered and died. Again no crop. Still more of the seeds fell among thorns. These weeds grew so fast and so tall and strong that they choked the smaller plants and they died. But other seed fell into good ground, and these seeds grew and grew, nourished by the good earth and the rain, and they yielded an abundant harvest.

Then said Jesus, "He who hath ears to hear, let him hear." As the multitude went away, and Jesus was left alone with his disciples, they asked Him about this parable, and He explained that by the sower He meant the preacher, such as Himself or one of them. The seeds that fell by the wayside meant the minds of people who heard what was said, but so careless were they of what they heard that an evil spirit took the words away from them and the message did them no good at all.

The seeds sown on shallow ground meant the message heard by shallow, careless people, who received it gladly, found it to be good, but soon forgot it. They had no real depth of character to nourish the Word.

"And these are they which are sown among thorns," said the Lord, "such as hear the word, And the cares of this world, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful." It is like a child who means to be good and who hears what the parents say, but is so taken up with his own play and other interests, that he forgets and so gets into mischief in spite of good intentions.

Yield Abundant Harvest

Those who hear and take the Lord's message to heart, who think and pray over it and try to live the good life always, and help others so to do, are the good soil on which seeds are sown. They yield abundant harvest. They are like the disciples—all but Judas Iscariot—who treasured what the Lord taught them, spread the message all their lives, and by these teachings and the example they set, did incalculable good.

Jesus then told these men whom He had chosen to spread His message over the earth that when you light a candle you do not put it under a bushel or under a bed, but in a candlestick to give light. So His word should be as the lighted candle, set aloft to bring light to those who listened and understood the message.

After Jesus' death and resurrection these men would go about preaching what they had learned from Him, and as they taught their own spiritual life would grow and they would acquire more power for good. "For he that hath, to him shall be given," but to "him that hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he hath." Men grow in character by their good thoughts which lead to good actions. The more they ponder on the spiritual side of all things and try to help others to get their point of view, the more they gain for themselves. But those who are heedless, forgetting what good they hear, are apt to lose what they have.

Merely sowing the seed is enough. We should have faith that it will fall into good ground as the man sows and sleeps and wakes to do other work. The earth will take care of even a tiny seed like a mustard seed and bring forth maybe a great tree which will be shelter and comfort to many.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

TAX FORGIVENESS

When the pay-as-you-go system of income tax collection started last year, you already owed your 1942 tax. To relieve you of paying both your 1942 and 1943 taxes in the same year, Congress decided to forgive part of one year's tax.

Your 1943 tax return will show you how to figure how much tax was forgiven and how much of it you still owe. In general, you will compare your 1942 tax with the tax on your 1943 income to determine which is larger and which is smaller. You will be forgiven part of the smaller year's tax, and then you will owe the unforgiven portion of the smaller year's tax plus all of the larger year's tax.

However, you will credit against these tax liabilities (a) any payments you made on your 1942 tax (probably installments paid in March and June, 1943), (b) any income and victory taxes withheld in 1943 from your wages by your employer, and (c) any estimated tax you may have paid in September and December 1943.

If, after taking these credits, you owe a balance, you can postpone for one year (without interest) any part of the balance to one-half of the amount of the unforgiven portion of the smaller year's tax.

The amount of your forgiveness depends on the size of the smaller year's tax, and on whether you are in the armed forces. However, in the vast majority of instances, the forgiveness will be simply 75 percent of the smaller year's tax. Naturally, if you had no tax for one of the two years, 1942 or 1943, you have nothing to be forgiven.

Here are the methods of figuring tax forgiveness:

(1) If the smaller year's tax was $50 or less, it is all forgiven.

(2) If the smaller year's tax was more than $50 but less than $66.68, the forgiveness is a flat $50.

(3) If the smaller year's tax was more than $66.67, the forgiveness is 75 percent.

(4) If you were in any of the armed forces in active service at any time during either 1942 or 1943, and your 1942 tax was larger than the tax on your 1943 income, your forgiveness (as described in the three preceding paragraphs) is increased by recomputing your 1942 tax to eliminate as much of its excess over the 1943 tax as is due to "earned net income." This may result in the 1942 tax as recomputed being no greater than the 1943 tax.

Special rules apply in those instances in which a married couple filed either joint or separate returns for 1942 but are filing differently for 1943.

In the first place, they need to know how to enter the 1942 tax.

If they filed separately for 1942 and are filing jointly for 1943, they should add their 1942 taxes, and enter the total as their joint 1942 tax on their 1943 return.

If they filed jointly for 1942 and are filing separately for 1943, and the joint 1943 tax was smaller than the total of their separate 1943 taxes, they may divide the joint 1942 tax between them in any proportion they desire, so long as neither's share exceeds his 1943 tax. If they filed jointly for 1942 and are filing separately for 1943 and the joint 1942 tax was larger than the total of their separate 1943 taxes, then the difference may be divided between them, and each should report, as his 1942 tax, his share of the difference plus the amount of his 1943 tax.

In the second place, they need to know how to figure their forgiveness.

If they filed separately for 1942 and are filing jointly for 1943, they figure their forgiveness the same as a married couple which had filed jointly in both years. But if they filed jointly for 1942, and are filing separately for 1943, they must figure their forgiveness together, mind how much unforgiven tax they owe together, and then divide the unforgiven tax between them. In this last instance, the joint figuring must be shown on both returns and a statement must be attached showing how the unforgiven tax was divided.

The famous plane built by the Wright brothers in 1903 attained a speed of 42½ miles per hour, representing a speed 2½ miles per hour in excess of army requirements for the craft.

War Housing Center Offices Now At G.N.C.A.

Announcement was made today of the removal of the War Housing Center officers from South Mill street to the offices of the Greater New Castle Association in The Castleton hotel. In the future all applications for accommodations and any other details of housing will be handled by the GNCA.

The housing program was inaugurated a little over a year ago by the Housing Committee of the Lawrence County Council of Defense, in co-operation with the GNCA. A voluntary homes registration and conversion program was undertaken and later a house to house survey was conducted. All applicants for rooms, numbering 120 were accommodated. Over 700 applications for housing accommodations were listed and 502 of them filled.

Through privately financed conversions, 126 new family accommodations were provided and four are still under construction. Private builders are now providing 66 new homes through new construction and 80 apartments are being made available by means of the public conversion plan.

Governor Martin Cites Achievement

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Six achievements were held up today by Gov. Edward Martin at noteworthy of mention during his first year in office.

As listed by the chief executive in a radio address last night to the state, they were:

(1) The shortest session of the legislature in more than a decade with the adoption of more than one hundred million dollars in tax reductions.

(2) Simplified tax reports, abolition of mercantile and personal property taxes and legislation protecting the interests of taxpayers in municipal authorities.

(3) The launching of plans to eliminate the "expensive and elaborate" general state authority.

(4) The abolition of the original Pennsylvania board of parole and its replacement by a three-member commission.

(5) Reduction in the number of salaried state employes by more than 3,000.

(6) Enactment of a "fair and reasonable" congressional reapportionment act.

Farm Show Will Conclude Sessions

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The series of conferences marking the 28th annual Pennsylvania farm show will end tonight and several thousand delegates will return to their farms to spur wartime production.

The farm show commission fell short in estimating the number of delegates attending the three-day meeting and consequently last-minute arrangements had to be made to accommodate overflow crowds trying to jam into small rooms at the state capital.

Last night's session was marked by a demand from Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livengood, Jr., that the state milk control commission be stripped of its powers.

The law was adopted as an emergency measure, he said, and since it has failed to meet its objectives it should be abandoned.

"We may legislate as we will," Livengood declared. "We may circumvent or openly defy the wise provisions of the constitution, but the old law of supply and demand still remains in force and no way has been found by which economic law may be violated without the ensuing penalties."

GOOD LIGHTING IS Non-Rationed!

Just because you don't have to hand over any ration points for your lighting, don't take it for granted. There's enough electric power to take care of everyone's needs, but not enough to be wasted. So don't you be the guilty one. Use lighting full strength when you need it but don't resort to waste.

BUT - electricity shouldn't be wasted!

You can't save electricity in the same sense other things can be saved. But, you do save the fuel, services, manpower and critical materials used to produce it when you use less. The savings you make by reducing waste contribute to the success of the National Conservation Program. We bring you this suggestion as our cooperative effort with the coal, oil, gas, water, communications and transportation industries. Conserve everything to add extra power to the knock-out blow planned for the Axis.

Use electricity for work, health, and safety. The suggestion is to not waste. There is enough for all essential uses.

Broker Fails To Follow Advice; Loses His Bonds

NEW YORK Jan. 20.—(INS)—A New York stock broker who always warned customers that securities kept at home were liable to be stolen was out $4,300 today because he didn't follow his own advice.

Broker Paul R. Estes ruefully reported to police that stocks and bonds totalling that amount were stolen from a locked desk in his apartment.

Adding to his humiliation was the sole response he received from a newspaper advertisement offering a $100 reward for the return of the securities.

"Is this the party who advertised the reward?" a voice asked him over the telephone. Hopefully Estes replied, "yes".

"Thank you," said the caller—and hung up!

Speculation On Possible German Peace Maneuvers

Diplomatic Washington Speculates On Possibility Of Move For Peace With Russia

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Diplomatic Washington was speculating today on the possibility Germany may be making separate peace overtures to Russia.

This speculation was spurred by Stockholm reports that German representatives recently visited Turkey with a view to sounding out the Russians.

While there was no official confirmation of these reports, responsible Washington sources considered it quite possible that Germany may be making last minute effort to avoid complete military defeat by approaching Russia with a peace offer.

It was recalled that the Japanese ambassador in Moscow spread reports there last September that the Germans would withdraw to a strongly prepared defense line and then seek a separate peace with Russia.

The Japanese in Moscow hinted at that time that if Russia refused to make peace with Germany, the Germans would make a separate peace at any price with the Americans and British in the west.

German Peace Offensive

There have been persistent reports in neutral European capitals recently that the Germans may decide to let the Anglo-American armies occupy Germany before the Russians get there in the hope they would be saved from Soviet reprisals. It is thought these reports may well be part of a German peace offensive.

If the Germans actually are making such an approach to Russia, the possibility is seen that the Moscow separate peace accusation against Great Britain may have been intended as a warning to the British not to consider any "walk-in" occupation arrangement with Germany.

Official Washington is confident Russia will not accept any separate peace offers from Germany. It is considered highly probable that Germany may be attempting to take advantage of the Russo-Polish crisis to drive a wedge between the Soviet Union and the western allies.

Rumors have been circulating in diplomatic circles for some days that informal German overtures were made to Russia offering to withdraw all German forces from Soviet territory and to give Russia a large part of Rumania in return for a separate peace. Official Washington does not believe any such German peace offensive will succeed.

'Rebuild' Men Hurt In War

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—(INS)—Through its extensive rehabilitation and reconditioning program, the Army Medical Corps, guardian of the health of American soldiers is striving to restore to useful service as many wounded and injured fighting men as possible.

Not only eager to "bring 'em back alive," but to keep convalescent soldiers from going stale during their hospital confinement, the Medical Corps program is designed to condition the men physically and mentally.

One of the most comprehensive rehabilitation programs in the Fifth Service Command, which includes Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia, is at Nichols General hospital, Louisville, where wounded soldiers from every battle front are treated.

Under the direction of Major Robert L. Preston, chief of the rehabilitation and orthopedic sections of the hospital, the program is being expanded to include all patients except those suffering from severe mental disorders.

In three recent months the hydrographic office of the U. S. Navy printed and distributed 12,900,000 charts—the most precise and accurate charts possible to make.

Give Report On State Employment

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The Federal Reserve bank of Philadelphia reported today that employment in 2,900 Pennsylvania factories in December held to about the same level as in the two preceding months. There was a slight decrease in payrolls and total working time.

The number of wage earners continued to exceed 1 1-4 million and the volume of wage disbursements was just under the November high of $55 million a week. During 1943, Pennsylvania employment averaged five per cent more than in 1942, payrolls were up 23 per cent, and employees-hours worked rose 10 per cent.

Wage payments last year were above the 1942 average in both durable and consumers' goods lines, the increase in the heavy industries being about double those turning out lighter products. The weekly income of wage earners decreased in December to an average of $46.17 from a record level of $46.41 in November.

REGISTRATION

Five voters registered as Republicans and two as Democrats in the past week. Two changed from Democrat to Republican.

MANY ARE REINSTATED

Since the disfranchisement notices went out to some 5600 voters, about 1300 have returned the reinstatement request and will not lose their voting privilege. Among the notices sent out, many are to men and women now in service. Where such notices are received, it is urged that others living at the same address notify the Office of Permanent Registration and reinstatement will be made.

The Lawrence County Republican committee is aiding in the reinstatement of voters. Every county committee man has a list of the voters in his precinct who have been disfranchised and is canvassing the list in an effort to have the voter reinstate himself.

FATHERS ARE CALLED

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Approximately 1,200 Allegheny county residents, many of them pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, were listed today for the Jan. 31 draft quota and will be sent for final physical induction into the armed services.

The selection by the county's 61 local draft boards begins today and marks the start of a new examination and induction procedure. Local boards are now required to maintain "pools" of A-1 registrants to fully fill all draft quotas placed before them from state selective service headquarters.

Penley stated that he had no objection to serving in a conscientious objectors camp or the merchant marine. In fact, he said he had passed a physical examination to enter the merchant marine but had not been accepted.

REAL AMERICANS

COLUMBUS, O., — (INS) —Employes of the Curtiss-Wright warplane plant will receive the added thrill of building 10 of the famous Curtiss-Wright Helldiver dive bombers, for service aboard an unnamed new aircraft carrier "X." Using a treasury department valuation of $100,000 as the cost of a dive bomber, the Helldiver-builders during their campaign, which began Sept. 22, have bought $1,000,037 in war bonds through payroll deduction and cash purchases, enough to "buy" 10 dive bombers.

GARBAGE STRIKE CONTINUES

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Pittsburgh's garbage strike entered its seventh day today with members of local 409, A.F.L. Refuse Drivers and Collectors union holding fast to their demand for higher wages.

City council is expected to pass finally two ordinances next Monday authorizing the taking of bids and awarding of collection contracts to a private concern. A state mediator continued his efforts to end the strike but without success, council was informed.

Human sacrifice, the spilling of blood, incantations by high priests, undoubtedly marked the first ship launching ceremonies. The gods, it was hoped, would be propitiated by these rites.

Kiwanis Club Has Anniversary

Dual Celebration Is Staged By Local Club In Castleton, Wednesday

PAST PRESIDENTS ACCORDED HONOR

New Castle Kiwanis club had a dual celebration at their luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Wednesday noon, when the 24th anniversary of the local club, and the 29th anniversary of Kiwanis International, both of which occur this week, were observed with a program which honored the past presidents.

President Sam Lewis presided and read the anniversary message from the international president, launching the 1944 "All out for Victory," program of the club.

He stated that Kiwanis International, founded in Detroit on January 21, 1915, now has a membership of 2,200 clubs in every state of the union and in Canada, with a total membership of 122,000.

President Lewis then introduced L. C. Mantz, who has been secretary of the local club since its founding back in 1919, who presided as chairman of the anniversary program.

He pointed out that the first meeting for organization was held on October 23, 1919, and that meetings were held in the Leslie Hotel and Y. M. C. A., and that when 50 members had signed the charter, it was granted them in January, 1920.

James K. Love, the first president of the club, was called upon and he told about the interesting events of the first year of the club. In turn each succeeding president was called and each in turn gave the highlights of his year, the names of the various officers, and the membership. Those who were unable to be present were represented by Chairman Mantz and Vice President Harry Barkby.

These presidents, and the order in which they served down to the present time, were as follows:

Clyde Gibson, 1921; R. L. Wallace, 1922; James Mayberry, 1923; Fred C. Wolford, 1924; Charles E. McGrath, 1925; Hon. Thomas W. Dickey 1926; Dr. C. J. Williamson, 1927; E. Lee Marvin, 1928; Capt. Charles B. Phillips, 1929; Hon. R. L. Hildebrand, 1930; Clement D. Parker, 1931; Clarence M. England, 1932; Norman E. Clark, 1933; J. Dan Reeble, 1934; Gilbert E. Long, 1935; Harry L. Gormley, 1936; Thomas L. Paden, 1937; Orville Potter, 1938; Jesse N. Kerr, 1939; Ralph H. Ramsey, 1940; Lyle C. Hughes, 1941; William R. Hanna, 1942; John J. Alexander, 1943.

Lt. Norbert Schweikert, home on leave after gallant action in the South Pacific area with the United States Air Forces, was a special guest of the club.

Mayberry Speaks At Consistory Smoker

Large Crowd Enjoys Kansas Farmer And Philosopher Wednesday Evening

Willard Mayberry, Kansas farmer and editor, made a big hit with the members of Valley of New Castle Consistory, A. A. S. R., at their smoker in the Cathedral Wednesday evening, which was attended by a crowd of around 400 men.

Mr. Mayberry gave a good picture of what the farmer is thinking about in this war-torn world. He stated that the view of the Kansas farmer is that if given the tools and opportunity he will produce, but that he doesn't like to be bound down with too many restrictions.

He stated that he has often been termed an isolationist for some of his views, but that the Kansas farmer believes that we should not become too deeply involved in European politics. He likened European diplomats to a friend of his in Kansas, who swaps his old car every year. At every other time of the year he is a good friend, but when this friend comes to his garage to deal for a car he has to be on his toes to avoid getting the worst of the deal.

Instrumental music was provided during the evening by the Misses Violet Germani, Louise DeCalvo, Plum and Thelma Lesher, talented local musicians. Pep singing was led by Dave Rees, and at the close of the program refreshments were served.

STUDY "ROVING COURT"

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The board of judges of Allegheny county today studied the 'roving court" plan to determine whether to establish circuit county courts in different outlying sections of the county.

Judge Blair F. Gunther has been an advocate of the "roving courts" because "it takes the court to the people who are busy in war work." Several of his colleagues are opposed to the plan.

Neither Germany Nor Japan Short Of Food Supplies

State College Professor Says Little Danger Either Country To Collapse For Food Lack

STATE COLLEGE, Jan. 20—There is little danger that either Japan or Germany will collapse in the near future because of food shortages in the opinion of Dr. J. L. E. McCord, professor of farm management and agricultural economics at the Pennsylvania State College.

Japan has one of the best-fed armies in the world, Dr. McCord pointed out, and Germany is 90 per cent self-sufficient in calories. Although German civilian rations are below the prewar level in fats and meats, calories and proteins are within 10 per cent of normal.

"During the last war the food shortage in Germany caused by the Allied blockade helped to shorten the conflict," he said. "During the present war, the shoe came close to being on the other foot. Japan's conquests shut off one third of the world's supplies of oils and fats Germany overran nearly one half of Russia's cropland. In smaller nations conditnions vary from malnutrition to widespread hunger."

Germany and Japan have as good food scientists as the Allies, if not the best in the world, Dr. McCord explained. Our armed forces must be better fed in this war because the enemy's soldiers and sailors are better fed than in any previous war.

The popular idea that the Jap soldier lives on rice is erroneous according to press reports from Attu Island. Retreating forces left quantities of meat; fish, eggs, potatoes, and fruits, and every Jap soldier had three or four large bottles of vitamin pills.

"Starvation of Japan is wishful thinking," Dr. McCord warned, "and we must not permit that kind of misformation to obscure the understanding of the magnitude of our task.

Party From Here Attends Red Cross War Fund Meeting

Local Chapter Representatives Hear Plans For $140,000,000 War Fund Quota

Representatives of the Lawrence County chapter of the American Red Cross attended a war fund planning meeting at the Roosevelt Hotel in Pittsburgh on Monday. Those who went from here were J. Glenn Berry, chapter chairman, Mrs. John E. Elliott, chairman of volunteer services, Mrs. Blake Waldo, Mrs. John McIlwraith, Miss Elizabeth Breslin ,executive secretary, and George D. Reid.

Ramone Eaton, eastern area manager, spoke of the need for a war fund quota of $140,000,000. Of this amount 90% will be spent on services to able-bodied in camps here, the sick and wounded in this country, to sick and wounded in hospitals overseas, services extending even to combat troops in areas where there are Red Cross field workers.

In the past year 5,000,000 pints of blood were turned over by the Red Cross to the army.

During the comping year, Mrs Eaton said that probabilities were that 2 out of every 5 men in service would make use of the communications service of the home service department of the Red Cross. In which case over 4,000,000 messages would be handled through the Red Cross.

At the same time, along with the war work, peace time work of disasters and for veterans must be continued.

Frederick Laise, manager in charge of Red Cross chapter service, presided at the meeting. Other speakers included Miss Cecile Kennedy, assistant regional director for Pennsylvania, and Robert Roberts, a field director recently returned from abroad.

Mr. Roberts, telling of his experiences in the field, said what the soldiers want to know is "Are you with them or for them? What they want is to feel that you are WITH them."

Bond Sales Are Over Daily Quotas

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Reports of the fourth war loan campaign in the 19-county Fort Pitt area indicated sales were well over the daily quotas.

Sales reported yesterday totaled $2,700,000 in "E" bonds for Allegheny county and $800,000 for the 18 other counties, giving a total of $3,500,000 for the area.

Meanwhile campaign workers were urged to see that the drive is "as nearly a 100 per cent person-to-person canvass of every prospective bond purchaser in Allegheny county as is humanly possible."

RED CROSS ANNUAL MEETING IS TONIGHT

Anyone who is a member of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, is issued an invitation by Chairman J. Glenn Berry to attend the annual meeting this evening at 8 o'clock, when election of officers for the coming year will take place.

Plans will be announced for the annual War Fund drive, which starts March 1 and there will also be reports of the Chapter activities for the year.

LEGION COMMITTEES NAMED BY COMMANDER

Committees to serve for the coming year were named by Commander Tony D'Andrea on Tuesday night, January 18, when the James Phillips Post, 726, American Legion met in the Lincoln-Garfield school. Membership buttons have been received from the national headquarters and are now ready for distribution to the membership.

NESHANNOCK POST TO HAVE MEETING

Neshannock post No. 315, V. F. W., will have an important meeting in the post rooms, East Washington street, at 8 o'clock this evening, Commander Frank T. Sargent announced today.

A number of important matters will come up for discussion, including membership and veterans legislation. The committee on membership will announce plans which have been formed for a membership drive.

At the close of the meeting the K. Ps. will serve refreshments, it is stated.

TIPS TO SAVE TIME IN DAILY DISHWASHING

Short cuts in doing every day household duties are what homemakers are seeking these days. One task that must be done regularly is dishwashing, but it can be simplified and be made less time consuming.

First step in this time and energy saving process is to have equipment for dishwashing conveniently arranged. That means having soap and cleaning powders handy, a can for garbage, and a waste basket. A place to put dishes until they are scraped and stacked is a must. A drop leaf shelf or a small portable table may be used where counter surface is lacking.

Glassware comes first in the washing process. Wash in lukewarm soapsuds, rinse, and dry with a lintless cloth. A folded tea towel in the bottom of the dishpan and rinsing pan avoids clatter and is a protection against chipping.

Wash silverware in hot soapsuds, rinse in hot clean water and dry at once. Remove stains when necessary. Egg, salad dressing, salt, and some other foods produce stains which come off easily if silver is quickly washed and polished after using. Keeping like pieces together is easy on the silver and speeds up the job of washing.

China is washed next, followed by the cooking utensils. Pots and pans are easier to wash if they are put to soak as soon as they are emptied. However, avoid putting cold water into hot dishes.

As soon as stains are discovered on china and cooking utensils remove them. Baking soda is good to remove stains on china, earthenware, and heat-resistant glass. Three tablespoons of soda to a quart of warm water will soak loose most scorched food on earthenware and heat-resistant glass utensils.

FEED PULLETS RIGHT TO GET WINTER EGGS

Profits from the pullet flocks on Lawrence County farms during the winter are largely dependent on wise feeding and management practices. Probably the most important factor to consider is feed and water consumption. Every poultryman should make it easy for his birds to consume large quantities of feed and water.

A pullet not only should eat enough feed to produce heavily but also to gain in weight. A pullet should gain a half-pound to a pound in weight from the time she is housed in the fall to the end of the laying year.

Extension poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State College report that a flock of average-sized Leghorns laying approximately 50 per cent will consume about 25 pounds of feed per 100 birds daily, while birds of the dual-purpose breeds will eat about 30 pounds of feed.

The best answer to the problem of how much feed to give 100 birds per day is to keep dry mash before them at all times and to give them all the scratch grain they will eat at night at this season of the year. In the morning, give the birds one-quarter to one-third the amount of scratch feed eaten at night.

If the birds are not gaining they should be encouraged to eat more feed. Mash moistened with milk or water fed at noon each day at the rate of 3 to 4 pounds to 100 birds daily will help increase feed intake. Pellets fed at the same rate and about the same time each day also will serve the same purpose as a moist mash. Feeding of only that amount of dry mash that the birds will consume each day will prevent the accumulation of worked-over feed in the bottom of the feeder. It also is a good practice to stir the dry mash by running a hand through the feed each time one goes through the pen.

The poultryman also must be mindful of the fact that a bird must drink considerable water to produce satisfactorily. In cold weather, water consumption can be increased by taking the chill off the water. If water-heating units are not available, satisfactory results may be obtained by adding a little warm water several times a day to the drinking fountains. Work done in Illinois several years ago brought out that poultry which had drinking water warmed at all times during the winter laid 15 eggs per bird more for the period than those that did not.

Three Are Dead In Hatchet Murders In Spokane, Wash.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 20.—The death toll of Spokane's hatchet murders stood at three today with the death of Mrs. T. P. Dillon, in whose living quarters the killings took place. She had been unconscious since the attack.

Mrs. Dillon's husband, a sign painter, and Mrs. Jane Staples were killed instantly. Another man, F. S. Winnett, still was unconscious but was given a chance to recover.

A material witness, 27-year-old Woodrow Clark, was being held. Prosecutor Leslie M. Carroll announced Clark had made a statement but refused to reveal what he said.

Half Million Dollar Loss In Toledo Fire

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 20.—(INS)—Toledo's second $500,000 fire in eight days swept a block in the heart of the downtown district today, destroying or damaging four buildings.

The flames threatened to spread to the rest of the business district before firemen, responding to four alarms, were able to bring them under control after a four-hour battle.

It was Toledo's worst downtown fire in 25 years.

The fire was discovered shortly after midnight by Stanley Raszka, newspaper delivery truck driver, who saw flames shooting from the windows of the six-story building occupied by Harry's auto stores. The fire quickly spread to the other buildings in the block on Summit street.

William Di Lonardo Commended For Courageous And Daring Action

William Dominck Di Lonardo, 3 2-C, of North Plainfield, N. J., son of Joseph Di Lonardo, who resides at 14 N. Wayne street, this city, has been commended by the secretary of the navy for his "courageous and daring action," in attempting to rescue a fellow shipmate, James D. Hinkson, painter 2-C, from death by drowning in August 1, 1943, near the mouth of the Mississippi river.

Reports of the incident reveal that on a Sunday afternoon fishing trip, the engine of Di Lonardo's motor whaleboat died, and Hinkson attempted to assist the boat engineer by lifting the heavy engine cover, and, hit by a sudden gust, was carried over the side. With complete disregard for his personal safety Di Lonardo plunged into the heavy current. However, Hinkson's inability to swim, combined with the treacherous waters which exhausted Di Lonardo, proved too much, and Hinkson was drowned.

Stokowski Will Take New York Job

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Leopold Stokowski, former director for 29 years of the Philadelphia orchestra, today gladly accepted the post of director of a projected New York City municipal symphony orchestra as "an ideal job"—although it pays no salary.

"The idea that it takes years to develop a really good orchestra is wrong," he said. "We will be ready for our first concert in March if we have good players—and I think I know where we can find them."

The orchestra will give popular price concerts in the new city center of drama and music. Auditions will begin Monday.

ASK RETURN TO JOBS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The War Manpower Commission announced today it has requested experienced refrigeration repairmen, now working on jobs less important to the national welfare, to return to their former occupations.

The WMC said the peacetime total of approximately 28,000 of these repairmen in domestic service has decreased about 70 per cent or 19,600 and presents "a serious threat to national health."

First white man to look upon California was Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, Portuguese navigator. He anchored in San Diego Bay, in 1542.

Wampum Battles Bessemer Friday

Clash At Bessemer Features Section 21 Card; Jacks At East Brook

Out front by a game and a half as the race nears the halfway mark Wampum high seeks to capture an important triumph Friday night when the Indians travel to Bessemer to face a dangerous Bessemer quint.

Wampum, thus far, has displayed the best form in the local derby, winning its first five games with comparative ease, excepting contests with Shenango and Mt. Jackson. The Cementers, tied with Mt. Jackson for second place honors and unexpected losers to Shenango, 30-26, captured three other tilts.

Both teams are talented and boast of size and stamina. In Bennett, Marich and Scala the Indians lay claim to three of the top hands in the circuit. Bessemer has dependent performers in Kresevich and Donaldson, who has moved up from the second team. Loss of Mehocic, who is ailing with an ankle injury, weighs heavily against the Bessemerites.

Jacks At East Brook

While these bigwigs charge into each other, Mt Jackson hopes to keep into the race by defeating the last place East Brook five at East Brook. The Jacks have dropped but one loop engagement and, judging by their present play they can't be counted out of the derby. The Brookers already have suffered four reverses in the 21 circle.

Union Township high invades Shenango to round out the card. The Wildcats, whipped twice, figure to stir a lot of trouble before the season closes. The Scotland Laners have won one of four laegue games.

New Wilmington high journeys to Brookfield hopeful of gaining revenge for a 23-13 setback administered in its season opener with the Fielders.

State Wrestlers Open '44 Card On Saturday

Colgate First Opponent; Despite Navy Trainees, Pennsylvanians Dominate Squad

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 19.—Even with Navy V-12 trainees on the squad, Pennsylvanians will dominate the Penn State wrestling team when it opens the 1944 season against Colgate here Saturday.

The lone exception is Bob Lowrie, a senior from Teaneck, N. J. Lowrie was understudy to Cryder Mattern in the 121-pound class last year, and appears to have the berth clinched on this year's team. He is one of three civilians with previous experience.

Charley Dipner, Steelton, and Chuck Hall, East Springfield, who is totally blind, are seeking the 155 and 165-pound berths, respectively. Ben Ulrich, Lock Haven, who is also a civilian is still another 165-pound prospect. All of the civilian matmen are technical students at the college.

Shibley Home Bred

In the 128-pound division, Ray Shibley, of State college, and Bob Shadley of Glenside are running neck and neck. Pat Harrington, a Navy V-12 trainee from Harrisburg, is currently the top man in the 136-pound class while Aubrey McIlvaine, Navy V-12 trainee with previous experience at Clearfield high school, is the team's best bet in the 145-pound division.

In the heavier weights, the main prospects are Dick Little, Navy V-12 trainee from Clarks Summit, and Apprentice Seaman Red Moore, Rochester, Pa., who was a member of the football team. Johnny Jaffurs, Wilkinsburg grid ace, also has joined the squad since his return from the East-West football game.

JB Athletes Wallop UEF, 50-29, To Clinch Flag; Pottery Second

Kozella And Kendra Lead Attack With 29 Points; Aluminum Cops, 48-17

Cutting loose with a 21-field goal offensive and converting eight charity throws, the versatile Johnson Bronze basketball team walloped the United Engineering Foundry aggregation, 50-29, Wednesday night on the Y. M. C. A. boards, to capture the first half championship of the Industrial League.

The Bronzers, coached by Mike Diffley, needed the triumph to cinch the laurels and played impeccably throughout. With a pair of Terrace district sharpshooters showing the way, the JB quint clinched the affair in the opening half, showering 26 markers through the lace while the somewhat amazed UEF boys were able to count only a dozen. In the last half, the Bronzers almost matched their opening half burst, missing by two points.

Kozella-Kendra Star

Kozella and Kendra, the Terrace district scoring twins, sealed the verdict in the first two stanzas by pouring 18 points. After the battle smoke cleared, the pair had collected as many markers as the losers. Kozella alone bucketing 15. Robinson and Bullano highlighted play for the losers.

The triumph boosted the JB string to nine successes against a single setback.

Shenango Pottery's cagers, with a chance to deadlock the Bronzers if the UEF finished on top, took the floor in the second fray and copped with ease, subduing the National Radiators, 39-23. Sanangelo starred for the Pottery, sinking 18 points. Davis came next with seven. Thomas and Ferris were the Rads' aces.

Shenango finished in second place with eight wins against a pair of losses while the Rads are stationed in fourth place.

The Aluminum Works passed the finish stripe in third place with five and five by knocking off the Universal Pottery, 48-17. The Alcoa wrapped up the decision in the opening half by counting 28 points against eight for the cellar dwellers.

Byler was high scorer for the night with 21 points on 10 double deckers and a gift shot. Williams counted 10. Grasseli and Adamo divided honors for the losers.

Wednesday's games ended first half play. The last half race starts soon.

KIYOSHI NAKAMA, the Hawaiian-born swimmer who helped lead Ohio State to many swimming team victories last year, is the big noise of the Buck natators again this year. Sucker Fishing Time In State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Don't let the wind and snow fool you—it's sucker fishing time again in Pennsylvania, and more than 500,000 fishermen will crowd the banks of the state's streams between now and the opening of the trout season April 15.

That was the estimate advanced today by Harold G. Trembley, assistant professor of fish culture at the Pennsylvania State college who recommended the sport as a healthful change-of-pace for the busy war worker.

Asserting that the sucker is an especially good tasting fish, the Penn State expert said the thousands that will be caught this year should prove a valuable addition to our food supply.

Suckers are found in any good trout stream, Prof. Trembley pointed out, as well as in streams of equal size which get too warm in the summer for trout. He considers the common earthworm the best bait, and deep holes the best spots in which to fish for suckers.

The most important item of equipment, he says, is a sinker heavy enough to keep the bait near the bottom, where the suckers do their feeding. He favors small hooks because of the sucker's small mouth and the manner of sucking in food.

HOPPE WINS AGAIN

New Brighton Foe In Fourth Section 3 Battle For Local Quint

Lodged in the Section 3 ratskeller by virtue of three successive defeats, New Castle high's cagers hope to move up by subduing New Brighton high, here Friday night.

The George Washington junior high engagement starts at 3:15 o'clock.

While the locals are practically out of the race, they still have a mathematical chance, provided they bag all remaining league contests—an order that appears a bit too difficult to fulfill.

New Brighton, turned back in its first two sectional dates, swatted Ellwood City high's smooth club, 30-27, Tuesday night, and displayed lots of finesse.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh probably will juggle his lineup, giving second stringers an opportunity to show their stock, in view of the fact that they'll probably be around next season.

The varsity game will follow a preliminary starting at 7.

HERE AND THERE N SPORTS LAND

First Sergeant Morton H. Suber, the grip toss and hold-em boy, is not doing so badly over in John Bull's territory having captured four mat bouts since he crossed the ocean blue, according to a letter received by his brother Lieutenant Cecil Suber of the city police department. Indications point to Suber being kept busy on the mat when he isn't "top kicking." When "Morrie" as we called him, was around this section he weighed less than a light-heavyweight, yet wanted to go after the heavies.

Two local marines are now located at Camp Pendleton, Calif., they being no other than Platoon Sergeant Johnny Dean, former local recruiter and also a glove thrower and Corporal Ralph Lanigan, the latter having been recruited by Dean. Lanigan was sent to Pendleton after ending "boot" training. They are with the 25th Marines, 5th division, FMF. Corporal Lanigan is driving for the CO and Dean is regimental police sergeant.

Lieutenant George Sigler, also a former city policeman, is in England and with Tommy Joyce also from this city, recently met Morton Suber at APO 635, New York . . . Wendell Morrison, Spec. 3-c, C. G., is yet at Wilmington, N. C., eating good and enjoying life.

Here's Joe Howley talking via a V-letter from Europe. He met his brother Sergeant Bill. He sends his best to Dave Rosenberg, Eddie Meyers, Pete Chill, Scaglione, Greer, et al. "I wish I could have a few hours to debate the Notre Dame-Great Lakes game. I am sure that George Chip, Jr., could explain this to one and all. All kidding aside, Ed. I realize the importance of this game. We are not fighting for perch on this trip. It's the real thing or nothing."

Bucknell-Villanova Cage Foes Again

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—(INS)—Bucknell and Villanova prepared today to resume basketball relations Saturday night after a seven-year lapse.

Chastened by their first setback of the season, a 48-32 defeat administered by Muhlenberg, the Bisons were hopeful of a rebound against Villanova on their home court.

Lions' Gymnasts Will Face Navy

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Penn State's championship gymnasts will meet Navy in the season's first meet at Annapolis February 12. Last year the Lions copped the Eastern and National A. A. U. team titles.

Piccadilly Wins At Hialeah Park

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 20.—Piccadilly captured the 6½ furlong Orange Blossom handicap at Hialeah Park, yesterday.

STATE POSTPONES FENCING SCHEDULE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Fencing is Penn State's first casualty on the wartime sports front. Lack of war-precious equipment prompted cancellation of the Lion schedule this winter.

FOR POLIO FUND

The Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Asso., boasting one of the top teams to Pittsburgh's basketball league will play host to Camp Reynolds in a benefit game for the Infantile Paralysis Fund, Saturday January 29. Two preliminary contests are scheduled with prices ranging up to five dollars. The "Y" hoopsters defeated the strong Pitt Army Dental team, 32-30, Sunday afternoon.

JAFFURS TRIES WRESTLING

Johnny Jaffurs, Penn State football guard, has joined Tackle Red Moore on the Lion wrestling squad.

Athletics' Brown Facing Induction

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—(INS)—Norman Brown, right-handed hurler who joined the Athletics on the last day of the 1943 season, today had notified Manager Connie Mack that he faces induction into the armed forces before the start of the 1944 campaign.

Brown took his final physical examination yesterday at Fort Jackson S. C., he is 25, married, and has one child.

Bagby-Boudreau Feud Is Renewed

Clevleand Twirler Wants To Be Traded; Quarrel Started Last August

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 20.—That old feud between Manager Lou Boudreau and Pitcher Jim Bagby apparently has been renewed.

The Cleveland Indian moundsman, winner of 17 games last season, today wrote in a letter to Ed. McAuley, of the Cleveland News:

"I just don't believe he and I ever can get along on the same club. The best thing Cleveland can do is to trade me. Where? Anywhere."

Manager Boudreau and Bagby had words last August in Washington when the pitcher was fined $100 for not taking a warm-up run before a night game. Bagby claims he had run before Boudreau reached the park.

The pilot, on the other hand, said Bagby was out of condition.

Bagby's fine was never returned and the two haven't seen eye-to-eye since.

The twirler is a Cleveland native is employed as a tool designer in Marietta, Ga.

LEHIGH U. POLL FAVORS FOOTBALL

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 20.—(INS)—A poll at Lehigh university disclosed today that students, alumni and faculty desire a continuance of intercollegiate football despite the war.

Arcadia, student governing body, demanded that the sport be not abandoned in a communication by its committee on student opinion to President C. C. Williams, while a survey of Lehigh alumni revealed an overwhelming majority favored having the Engineers continue football. It was understood that a faculty committee report paralleled that presented by the student group.

Clay Smith, new Dodger pitcher obtained from St. Paul, once was the property of the Detroit Tigers.

The Lawrence countians, paced by Rhodes and Gurgiolo, gained a 15-14 halftime edge. The aforementioned pair holed 27 points between them to keep their mates in front. Rhodes garnered 15 of his team's 35 markers. Kushma and Ungar featured for the losers.

SPORTS RAMBLINGS

Random stuff and things:----

When the firing ceases and the world is at peace again, New Castle high may be able to point with pride at a new basketball plant. There is a movement underway, according to the grape vine circle, that calls for the construction of a dribbling range when Hitler, Hirohito and his gangsters are tamed. If the rumor has a bit of truth to it, fans, no doubt, are prepared to say Amen! Generally regarded as having the top football stadium in western Pennsylvania and one of the best gridiron emporiums in the nation—in scholastic circles—New Castle's basketball setup is way down the bottom . . .

Lieutenant John Maher, who pecked away on one of the New Castle News' typewriters before becoming publicity chief for the Pittsburgh Steelers (then the Pirates) and later tub-thumper for Johnstown of the Middle-Atlantic league and still later part owner of a Texas baseball club, is stationed at Fort Bragg. His dad is John J. Maher, Sr., local banker . . . Charles "Goldie" Goldblum, Westminster's sensational center last season, is undergoing advanced bombardier training at Deming, New Mexico . . . .

Max Schmeling, reported as killed in action during the early stages of the war, has been released from German military service and now is resting on a farm outside Cologne, according to a piece traced to Stockholm. Proving again that Schmeling's game isn't fighting . . . "Bill" Flynt, Arkansas University's star cager, takes his place in the pulpit as Rev. William Flynt at Perryville Baptist church every Sunday morning. He's 21 . . . .

Lieut. Buddy Lewis, the ex-Washington Senator second base star, now is piloting a paratroop transport plane . . . "Bill" Alexander, of Georgia Tech, Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Bob Zuppke, former Illinois university mentor, all won fame as coaches but none of them was a varsity star! . . . While playing a round of golf, Bing Crosby sang "Million Dollar Baby". A nearby golfer heard the tune and stepped up to a bond buying booth and purchased $1,000,000 in bonds. Which reminds me, back up the Fourth War Loan drive . . . .

Yanks-Bums Card Sixth Spring Game

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Brooklyn Dodgers President Branch Rickey announced today a sixth spring exhibition game between "Dem Boms" and the Yankees, to be played April 4 at Trenton, N. J.

Third in the series, it will follow games between the big league rivals at Atlantic City on the two preceding days.

ARMY-STATE SWIM MEET ON SATURDAY

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Freshman Leigh Woehling, Norristown, will be Penn State's chief threat in Saturday's swim meet with Army at West Point. Woehling holds the Pennsylvania school boy record in the 100-yard back stroke event.

RUNNING ENTERS SKI TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Jim Running of Minneapolis, American log rolling champion and one of the country's great ski jumpers, was announced today as an entrant in the Norge Ski club's tournament next Sunday at Wrigley Field.

His entry brought the number who will compete to 45.

Franklin-Washington To Clash On Friday

George Washington and Ben Franklin junior highs clash in one of the feature meetings of the season Friday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock on George Washington floor.

This marks the initial session between the foes. Franklin, loser only twice in 11 contests, is heavily favored.

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The new that the great femal athlete, Babe Didrikson, was reinstated as an amateur golfer by the United States Golf Association, is proof of a tendency in amateur sports to soften with years. It was just about thirty-two years ago that Jim Thorpe, the greatest athlete who ever lived, was stripped of his medals and trophies won in the 1912 Stockholm Olympics because of professionalism in a sport not related to those which won him honors in Sweden.

Of course, Babe had to wait almost nine years for reinstatement, since she was declared ineligible in May of 1935. That's enough time for style on the links to disintegrate or for enthusiasm to wane, as it no doubt has for the girl who created a legend in the 1932 Olympics at Pasadena. Thorpe himself it still trophyless, although two members of the Oklahoma state legislative body asked that the baubles be restored, along with Jim's reputation as an amateur. The fact of the matter is that Jim couldn't be helped now if all the cups, medals, plaques and trophies manufactured in the name of sports were heaped around him. He needed help thirty-two years ago and didn't get it . . . that is what he remembers.

However, it is a sign of increasing wholesomeness in athletics to see any amateur body mellowing to the extent of admitting to its list of eligibles a former professional. What harm there is in taking money for endorsing cigarettes athletes never use, or underwear they privately feel would make them uncomfortable, is beyond all comprehension. For that matter, there is no use in condemning an amateur football player for engaging in professional baseball contests. That sort of stuff tends to make the amateur officials stretch in their haste to enforce the rules.

There is one game that will never be assimilated by the major portion of the public, and that is curling. What brings this to mind is the photo of National League president, Ford Frick, clad in the tarlatan of his Scotch forbears, vigorously assaulting a round stone with a broom as he pursued it across the ice. Frick is on the St. Andrew's No. 1 curling rink outfit, skipped—whatever "skipped" may mean—by Pitt F. Carl.

It may sound a trifle uncommon for a sports writer to admit knowing little about a sport, no matter how obscure it may be, but I must say curling is out of my line. It takes a specialist to cover it, play it, or talk about it.

A Promise—and a Pledge

by the Independent Tire Servicemen of America

Ever since the first days of the "horseless carriage" tire service has been essential in keeping rubber-tired wheels turning. From solids to pneumatics to balloon tires, from crude rubber to synthetics, it has been the responsibility of independent tire dealers to keep pace with changing conditions in order to render the best service. At no time has tire service been of greater importance than during the present war-time emergency.

The Promise for Today

More tires need attention today than ever before. New synthetic tires are not being produced in sufficient quantity to meet civilian demand. However, camelback is being manufactured in greater quantity than ever before. We can give you reasonably prompt service. The problem of tire conservation is, however, partly your problem in that you must allow us to make frequent inspections, rely on our advice on repairing or recapping. We are too busy, too engrossed with important work to do unnecessary work. It's our job to keep you rolling. We'll do it, with your help.

The Pledge for Tomorrow

In pre-war days we could and did guarantee new tire mileage with crude rubber camelback. As our supplies improve we will continue to give added miles to your tires, thereby reducing cost of transportation per mile. Today, recapping is the most satisfactory and certain means of keeping rolling. Tomorrow it will be just as valuable. The independent tire servicemen of America pledge to give you the best workmanship, use the best material available and strive by every means and by their accumulated experience to make your motor travel safe and economical. All of our facilities are at the command of the motoring public. We pledge, for tomorrow, a brighter outlook for tire conservation, due to the added knowledge born of the experience gained through the emergency.

STEADY TONE IN STOCK MARKET

Firmness In Aviations And Isolated Industrials Aids Market Tone

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Firmness in the aviations and other isolated industrials gave a steady undertone to the stock market today. Gains in some of the low-priced aircraft manufacturing issues ranged to large fractions, while the rest of the list had somewhat smaller advances.

Trading was quiet, with sales running around yesterday's 639,230 shares.

Consolidated Vultee led the aviations, rising a large fraction in fairly active dealings. Similar advances were scored by United Aircraft Lookheed and Boeing, while air transports were steady.

Rails were higher under leadership of Atchison, while coppers, oils, and steels were steady. Loews featured amusement trading and was up a point at one time on a higher earnings report.

Communications were led by International Telephone, up a large fraction, while American Distilling, off more than 6 points yesterday, recovered 2 today. Utilities and specialties had an easier undertone.

Selected rail liens moved higher to feature an otherwise steady bond market.

PAPER COLLECTION PLANS PROGRESS

Places For Storage Of Waste Paper Needed For Salvage Campaign

Plans for the collection of waste paper in New Castle on Saturday, January 29, are going forward by the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and the indications are that there will be plenty of collectors.

Fire stations will be used as temporary storage depots but there are only seven such buildings in the city and the need is for many times that number. Ross D. Rosenberger chairman of the salvage committee today urged again that citizens donate the use of garages, outbuildings, sheltered porches or any spots where bundled paper can be stored for a short time as it is too much to expect the scouts to carry the paper farther than a block or two The paper will be collected by trucks on January 29.

Citizens who wish to do a patriotic service are asked to call 4221-J and offer their garages or other outbuildings. Waste paper is needed badly. Newsprint, magazines, or box board, all of which should be tied in bundles will be shipped away and the net proceeds from the sale will be turned over to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts for their use.

Hoover Balks At Giving Answers

Declines To Answer Questions Before FCC, Under President's Order

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover declined to answer questions today before the Lea committee investigating the Federal Communication commission under direct order of President Roosevelt.

The FBI chief told the investigating committee he had been advised that he would probably be asked certain questions affecting internal security operations of his bureau. Hoover then added:

"The President has directed that I shall not testify to any matter or correspondence pertaining to internal security, so I must decline to testify."

Hoover's refusal to testify was made after Eugene Garey, committee counsel, had begun questioning him concerning discontinuance of an Italian radio broadcast in Boston and the dismissal of one Alfonse Lambiase from Radio Station WCOP in that city. Garey charged that Lambiase, "a citizen of the United States," was wrongfully and illegally put off the air" at the instigation of the FCC.

Unions Support Striking Employes Of Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Representatives of every major AFL union in the Philadelphia area will meet today to draft means of supporting the 3,000 striking city workers who left their jobs 15 days ago in a demand for a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The meeting was called shortly after the Teamsters Joint Council, 53, voted to stop its members, employed by private carbage collectors, from taking over routes formerly serviced by the city employes.

Jack O'Neill, council president, said his group had voted complete support of the strike, but added this does not indicate that the members will stage a sympathy walkout.

O'Neill said the council members have not yet voted on the sympathy strike issue.

"We will consider further action this afternoon in the Central Labor Union's meeting," he said.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for city council indicated that body is ready to discuss arbitration with the strikers.

North Beaver Board Organizes

North Beaver Township school board reorganized at a meeting held Tuesday evening, when Earl Cox of Enon Valley was elected to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of A. J. McCalla, who was secretary of the board.

The officers and members of the board are: president, Harry Reed; vice president, W. S. Caskey; secretary, Earl Cox; treasurer, V. I. Mandich; directors, Joseph Gilmore, Harold Wallace and William Fox.

New Bomb Attacks Near Rome Indicated

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—German reports indicated that allied aircraft today again assaulted communications points and airdromes in the vicinity of Rome.

The Nazi agency DNB said in a wireless transmission that "the Rome area and outer suburbs were bombed this morning".

The allied command at Algiers announced this morning that airfields in the vicinity of Rome were bombarded yesterday.

LIQUOR PRICE CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The Office of Price Administration moved today to plug another loophole in its fight against high liquor prices by placing all domestic sales of imported spirituous liquors under price control.

Rum from Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands is the principal item affected by the OPA order which becomes effective Jan. 26.

All sales of spirituous beverages produced in American territories and possessions and sold in the continental United States had been exempt from provisions of the general maximum price regulation since July 9, 1942. The more-recently liquor price regulation covers sales only by importers, wholesalers and retailers.

Report Girl Is Forced Into Car By Young Men

County Detective Charles Ross and State police are searching for two well-dressed young men who, at 7:45 a.m. today in Cascade street, forced a County Line Road girl into their Pennsylvania Ford car, from which she escaped only after a struggle. The girl sustained a gash on an arm, a cut on her head and was also bruised in making her escape, it is reported.

She was enroute to work along Cascade street when seized. The car sped east on the Butler road. Near Willow Brook the girl seized the emergency brake and the door flew open. In trying to get free she and one of the men fell out. It was then that she sustained the cuts. She trampled upon the man's throat and face while he laid on the road. His neck and nose bled, she told police.

Attaches of a business place where she fled took her home and she was given medical attention.

Sparks Will Make Full Statement In Letter Mystery

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, O., announced today that he will make a complete statement this afternoon on his part in the famous Harry Hopkins letter mystery.

Sparks, author of the book "One Man—Wendell Willkie" in which the forged letter first appeared, said that he will answer all questions at a news conference in the capitol.

The former mayor was in Washington for further testimony before the grand jury investigating the Hopkins forgeries, but the Justice department said the grand jury would not take up the Hopkins case again until tomorrow.

Green Is Silent On Reported Parley With John L. Lewis

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20.—(INS)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today refused to either confirm or deny reports that he and John L. Lewis has held a secret meeting in Miami regarding the possible return of the United Mine Workers' Union to the A. F. of L.

"I have nothing to say," was Green's only comment when asked about the reported meeting between Lewis, head of the powerful miners union, and himself.

It could not be immediately ascertained whether Lewis was in Miami. He is not registered at the hotel where the executive council of the A. F. of L. is holding its 10-day annual mid-winter session.

Mistletoe, holly and other Christmas decoration evergreens are said to be imitations of the ancient Roman custom of hanging evergreens in the houses during the Saturnalia as refuges for sylvan spirits from the inclemency of winter.

Bonded Debt Of City Is Reduced

Bond indebtedness of the city will be less than one-half million dollars at the end of 1944, according to Finance Director Albert Hoyland, who also stated today that the assessed valuation is $51,882,000.

Mr. Hoyland said that it was the desire of the city administration to reduce the bond indebtedness as rapidly as possible so that when the readjustment period arrives following the end of the war, the city's financial position will be such that "we anticipate being able to finance our share of any reasonable postwar program that may arise."

Finance Director Hoyland said that he expects $59,000 to be retired this year which will leave the bond indebtedness at the end of the current year $439,000.

Peace Rumors Are Laid To Efforts Of Adolf Hitler

London Press Sees Efforts To Create Disunity Among United Nations

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Speculation unloosed by the Moscow newspaper Pravda's "Rumor from Cairo" Monday showed signs of diminishing today though new, Nazi-inspired reports of German peace feelers to Russia prevented the topic's eclipse.

London's press was in general agreement that the various peace rumors all could be laid to Adolf Hitler in an attempt to create disunity among the three great powers threatening him with defeat and ruin.

Pravda's Cairo rumor—that two "leading British personalities" conferred with Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop about a separate peace—was followed by others relative to German overtures to Russia.

In Geneva, the Swiss newspaper La Suisse cited reports from Germany that a Nazi representative had flown to Ankara to open peace discussions with the Soviets. From that newspaper, too, came a rumor the Nazis had seriously discussed a German-Russian-Japanese alliance.

A Geneva dispatch to the Daily Mail said that while denying the Pravda story, Berlin had admitted that the Wilhelmstrasse had entered a "vital period of political activity."

A Basle dispatch to La Suisse was quoted as reporting that Franz Von Papen, the German ambassador to Turkey, soon would receive a special courier from Berlin with important instructions.

This development was said to have followed a meeting of Nazi leaders, presided over by Adolf Hitler himself which fixed the basis of German policy for 1944.

La Suisse declared that the Wilhelmstrasse hopes to separate Russia from the other Allies—that such a result was achieved in 1939 and that the Nazis hope to repeat it now. Pravda's story was considered by the Germans as means to facilitate that task.

The Daily Mail quoted La Suisse as saying that Hitler would be willing to make major concessions in Finland, Romania, Hungary and Slovakia as a reward to Russia if it enacted a separate peace with Germany.

Mustering Out Pay Measure Is Near Approval

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Legislation granting servicemen and women of World War II maximum mustering-out pay of $300 went to a senate-house conference committee today with but slight prospect of any increase in final action.

The measure, revised downward from a $500 top recommended by the senate, passed the house unanimously after all efforts to boost the payments had been overwhelmingly defeated.

"I believe the senate will take our bill this time," said Chairman May (D) Ky., of the House Military Committee. "The administration sent the $300 figure up here and it was so introduced in the senate by the majority leader."

Senate Leader Barkley indicated, however, that the house rate might be raised.

"I personally believe the amounts in the house bill should be somewhat increased," he said.

House To Begin Debate On Plan For World Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—The house begins two days of debate today on legislation authorizing the United States to participate—at an estimated cost of one billion, 350 million dollars—in the United Nationals relief and rehabilitation program drafted at Atlantic City last fall.

International action to help the liberated peoples of Europe "help themselves" is a "matter of necessity as well as of humanity," the House Foreign Affairs Committee emphasized in its report on the authorizing resolution.

UNRRA's financial plan provides that each of the 44 united and associate nations whose home territory has not been occupied by the enemy contribut an amount equal to one per cent of its national income for the year ended June 30, 1943.

For most schools, the OPA said, the new allotment schedules will provide appreciable increases in the amounts of meat and processed foods in cafeterias and lunch rooms at school. Heretofore schools were under arrangements similar to commercial eating establishments.

Hopkins And Ickes Feud Is Uncovered

Both May Disappear From Scene In Washington Is Prediction Now Being Made

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Federal investigation of the forging of the name of Harry L. Hopkins to a White House letter served today to publicize a 10-year-old undercover feud between the presidential advisor and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

The forged letter, now under inquiry by a federal grand jury in Washington, may have repercussions ending only in either Hopkins or Ickes leaving the administration. Some politicos expect both will disappear from the Washington scene before the next Presidential campaign begins, since their feud and its ramifications would provide the Republicans with tremendous political ammunition.

Aide to Ickes Accused

Former Mayor C. Nelson Sparks, of Akron, published the forged Hopkins letter in his book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie". He said he received it from George N. Briggs, confidential aide and ghost-writer to Secretary Ickes. The letter pictured Hopkins as friendly to Willkie and expecting the Republicans to renominate him for the Presidency this year.

Sparks will confer shortly with friends in the Senate in hopes of speeding a Senate investigation into the initiation of the forged letter, any possible tie between Hopkins and Willkie and the charges made in his book that Wall Street forced the nomination of Willkie in 1940. He already has told Senate friends that he received two copies of the alleged Hopkins letter, one a typewritten copy purporting to be on Hopkins' personal stationery and another purporting to be the actual letter, written on White House stationery. Hopkins denounced the latter as a forgery.

Sparks also has shown Senate friends a photographed copy of a memorandum, which he says he received from Briggs in early September last year.

Rev. Mr. T. J. Jones, president of the local ministerium, will conduct devotions.

The session will close with a period of prayer for the success of the enterprise. Its purpose is to discover the unchurched in New Castle and assure them of a most cordial welcome by the churches of the city.

NEW TAX BILL IS NEAR PASSAGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Senate leaders hope to force passage on the two billion, 275 million dollar tax bill by nightfall after a compromise is reached on revision of the war contracts renegotiation law.

The finance committee was called into session to consider a proposed compromise on renegotiation, which would retain in war agencies vast power to compel manufacturers to adjust downward their profits on contracts.

Sen. Walsh (D) Mass., who led a minority in protest against liberalizing amendments approved by the finance committee, said he believed an agreement would be reached on nearly all major controversial issues.

The proposed compromise was said to call for retention of power to adjust downward profits on contracts for standard commercial articles and retention of the present definition of sub-contractors with a specific exemption from renegotiation for the machine tool industry.
